They Keep Us Trying

We Reach

Our Main Goal

When we've reached our main goal in life, will we think what helped to get us there?

How about the chemist that almost gave up in his chemistry class? Or the history teacher that almost failed Junior Year U.S. History. Those high school teachers and counselors were the people that kept us going, kept us trying. But we also shouldn't forget the good times that kept us going and kept us trying. That special lunch when he asked you to go steady with him, or the telegram you got from a secret pal, or just the fact that you had one half of an hour to relax and unwind before the next class. Every one of those moments, how small or how big, it didn't matter, shaped and broadened our horizons.

Gayla Turner and Diana Misner sit in library park and take in some of those beautiful golden California Sunshine rays for their lunch period.

Sherri Fitzgerald, Kary Clements, and others talk about their day as Robin Lebowe sits and munches out on her fried chicken lunch.

Students sit on the wall to enjoy their lunch. In the background the mascot hovers over the boys' gym.

" Wow, Steve Leigh, not everybody comes to school in such style!!" One of the more classy cars parked in front of El Segundo High School.

When that bell rings the hallways of ESHS begin to fill quickly, but then another bell rings and the halls empty just as quickly. It has always been, it will always be!

Janene Roberts and Julie Hurlburt of Girls' League sell Melissa Pinchuk a Halloween telegram.

Annex building A and B has been annexed once again. It's being prepared to be moved so a new music building can be built, in an effort to Broaden ESHS Horizons.

Ty Laffoon and Jan Dougherty walk arm in arm coming back from lunch.

A single person at her locker; a baggie on the floor - the only signs of life. Not too familiar a scene; the halls of ESHS are never completely empty.

We'll remember

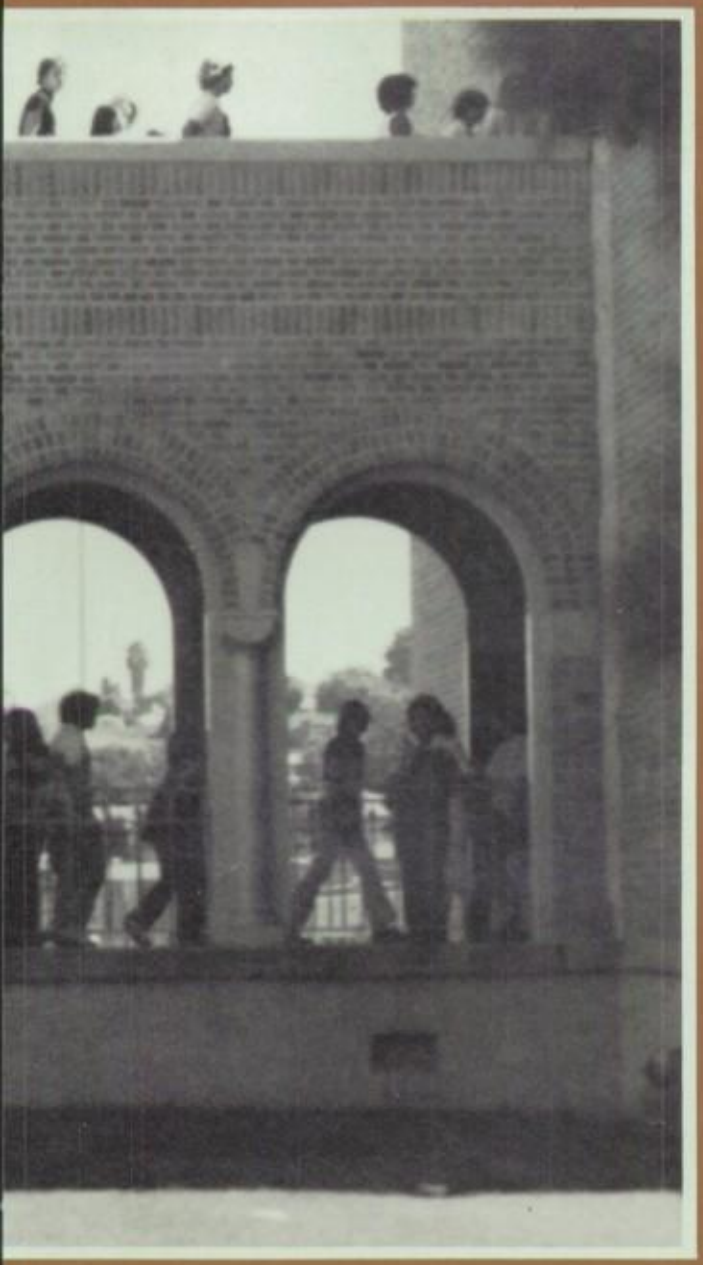
Laughs, Tears, And Good Times

One day we will look back and remember El Segundo High with fond memories. They may not have seemed so grand to us at the time, but the familiar words of our Alma Mater, the friendly laugh of our best friend, the only home run we ever made or a dance we were never asked to, these memories will all live in our hearts forever.

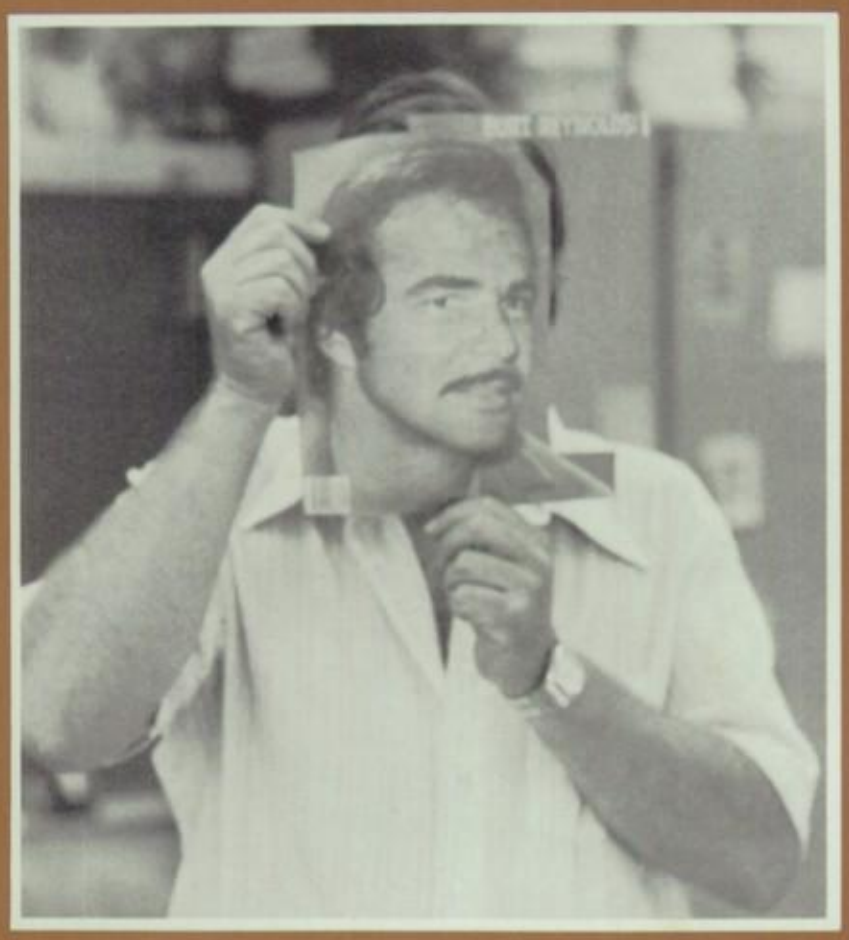
Many of us left E.S.H.S. not knowing where we were headed. Underclassmen took a step up on that long four-year ladder. Our final destination was molded by our fellow faculty and students. High school played a very important part in all our lives. . .you might say it Broadened Our Horizon.

Bells ringing, lockers slamming, classes changing, hurrying from room to room. Back to routine schedules. A typical high-school scene.

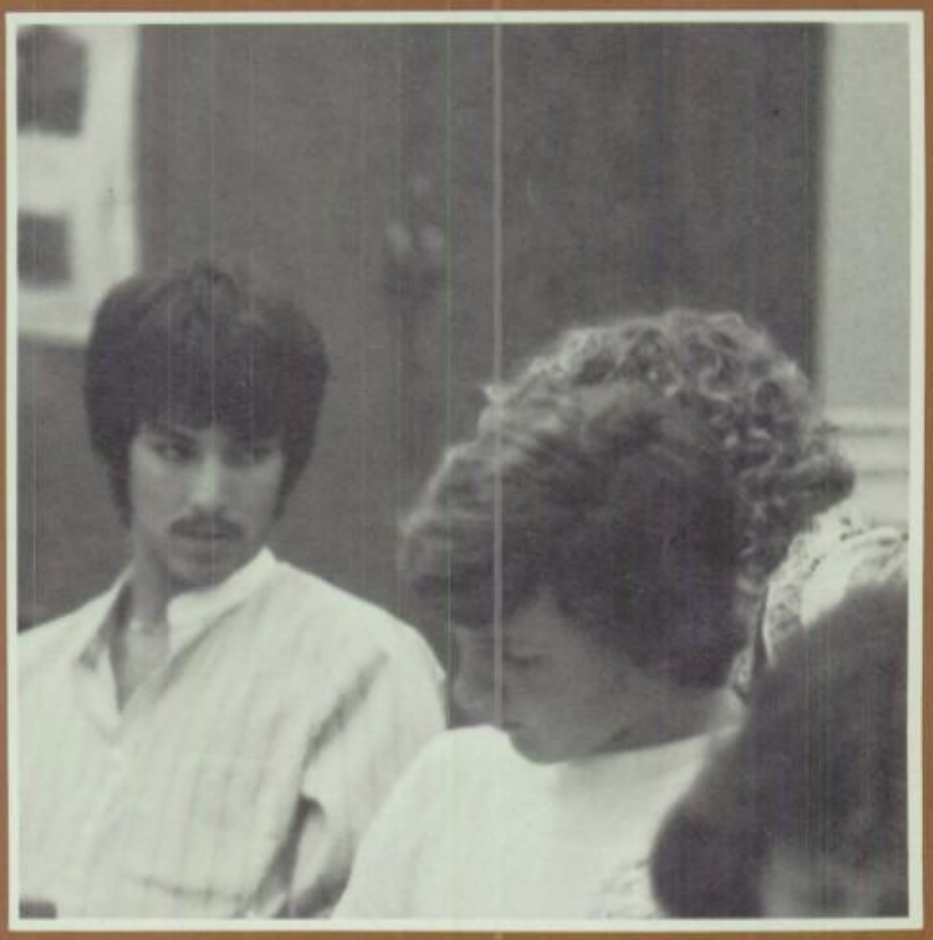
Junior archbearers of 77-78 are the senior graduates of 78-79. Some watch with anticipation; their senior year is just over the horizon.



Dreams are what hold our futures, our horizons. A comedian, a lawyer, a med student or maybe a baseball player-only Tom Smith knows what he wants to broaden his horizon.



Jolly Jack Wilson or Sexy Burt Reynolds? It's gotta be Jolly Jack going for a laugh, always there to brighten the day!



Charlie Haaker dreams about Broadening his Horizon, but Bren Connor works in the present to Broaden his Horizon.

The Class of 1979—the 50th Class to graduate from ESHS—gathers together for the Senior Group Picture in the Park.

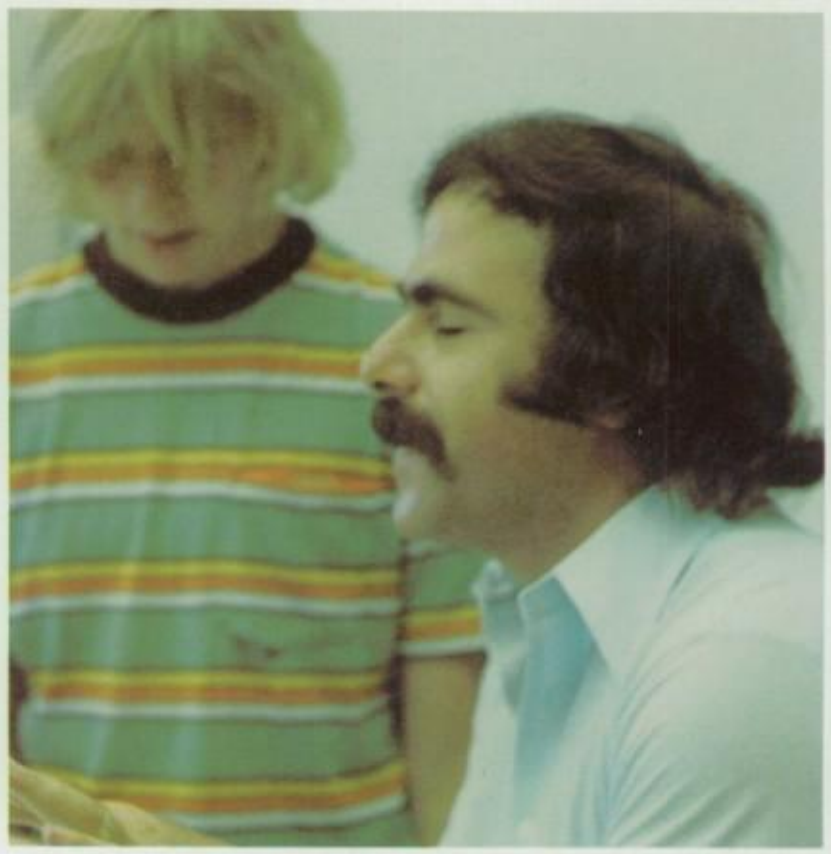
Respect for human dignity is one of the values that Mr. Larry Misel instills in his students. He teaches values as well as knowledge.



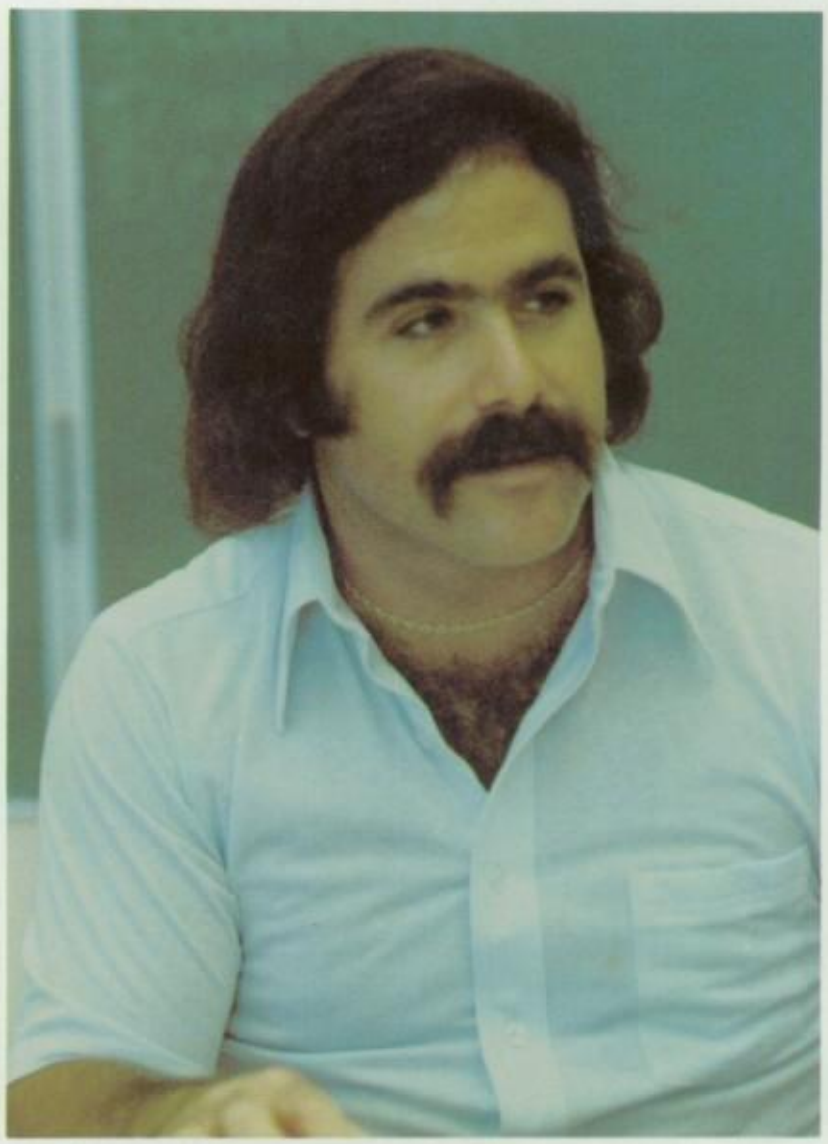
Mr. Misel finds that recognizing and helping the individual is an important factor in his classroom teaching.

El Segundo High's finest

A Man The People Love And Admire

Caring, knowledgeable, dedicated and, most of all a really nice person who is respected and well liked by all. That's our Mr. Misel!

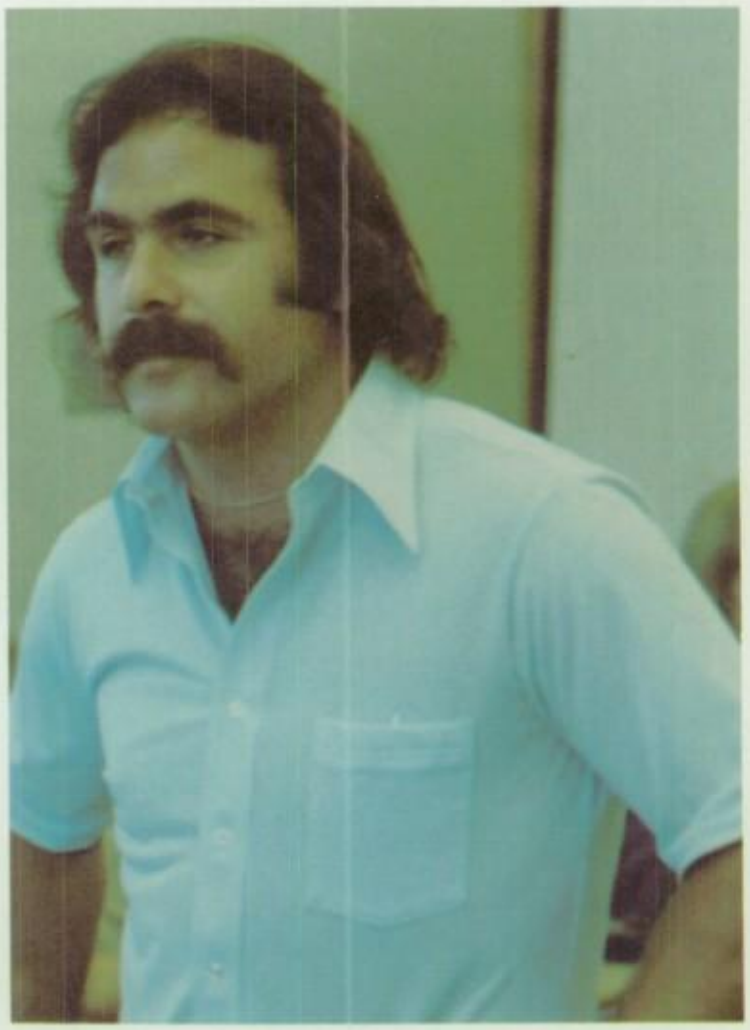
Mr. Misel worked as a custodian for the school district while attending college. He taught at the El Segundo Jr. High School before transfering to ESHS. At the high school, Mr. Misel served as Director of Activities and sponsored the Student Government class and the Junior class. That position was eliminated and he then sponsored the Pep Club, coached the frosh/soph football team and co-sponsored the Junior class. In addition to all these responsibilities, Mr. Misel continued to do an excellant job of teaching CWA. The students of ESHS know him to be a friend to all. He is a loving husband and father to his family. Larry Misel is an example of an honest, kind man, and an outstanding teacher. To use some of his own jargon, "He's a cool dude". We, the 1979 Golden Eagle staff, proudly dedicate this book to you, Mr. Larry Misel.



Self-respect is important to Mr. Misel. He believes education is teaching students to respect themselves as well as others.

In his day-in and day-out work, his actions, teachings, and deeds, Larry Misel displays his concern and affection for all students. He is more than just a teacher. He is a counselor, a friend, a sponsor and an example of the highest kind of human dignity.

"Me Tarzan; you, students!" roars Mr. Misel as he begins his classes. Mr. Misel believes in affirmative action in his teaching at ESHS.

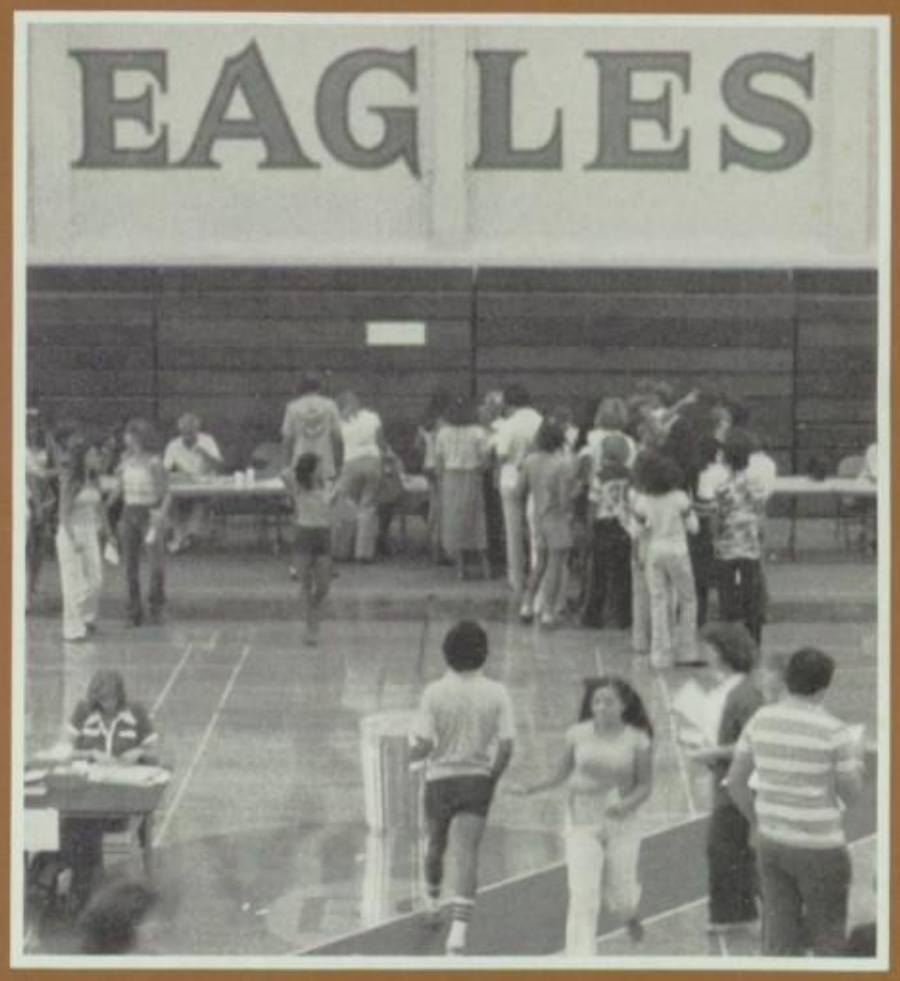


Mr. Misel contemplates the future of ESHS and its students as values and life-styles change constantly.

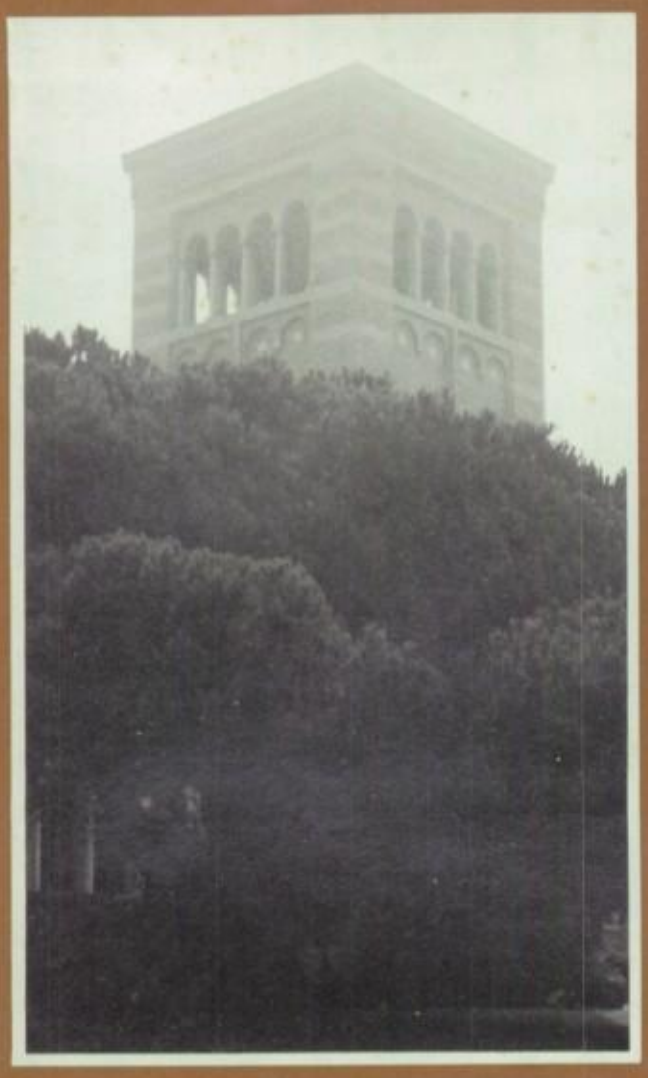
Snack duty isn't a favorite of anyone, but Mr. Cummings makes the best of it with some happy and sad students.

"Paul Russel what are you doing under that table? Oh, a drop drill: we get it." But how can this Broaden anyone's Horizon?

"We're number 1!" says Eagle's pep club. These are only some of the girls that help promote spirit for E.S.H.S.' games.

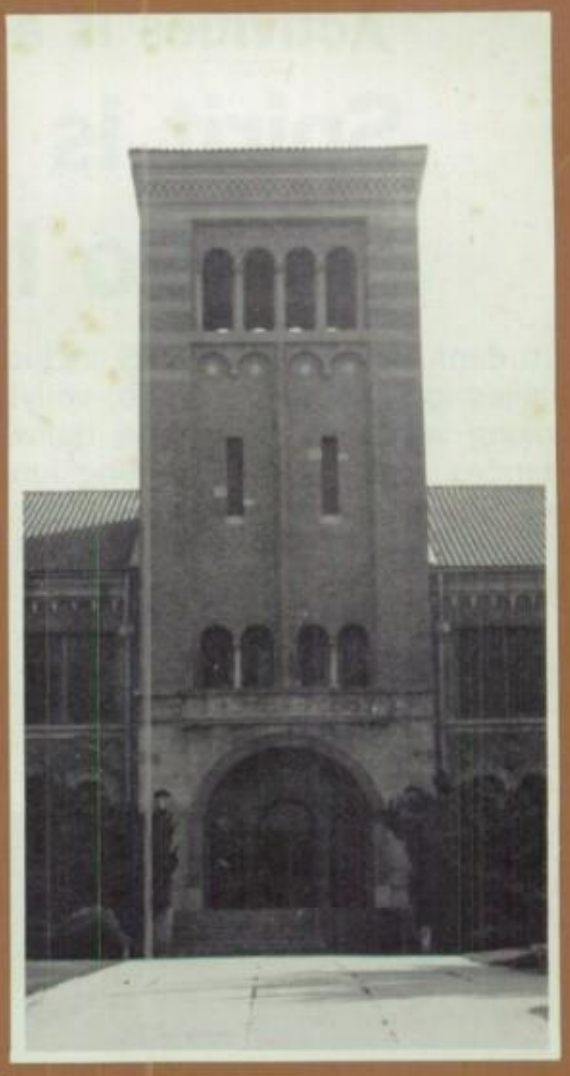


Closed classes, long lines, and disappointed faces describe registration day, the beginning of someone's Horizon.

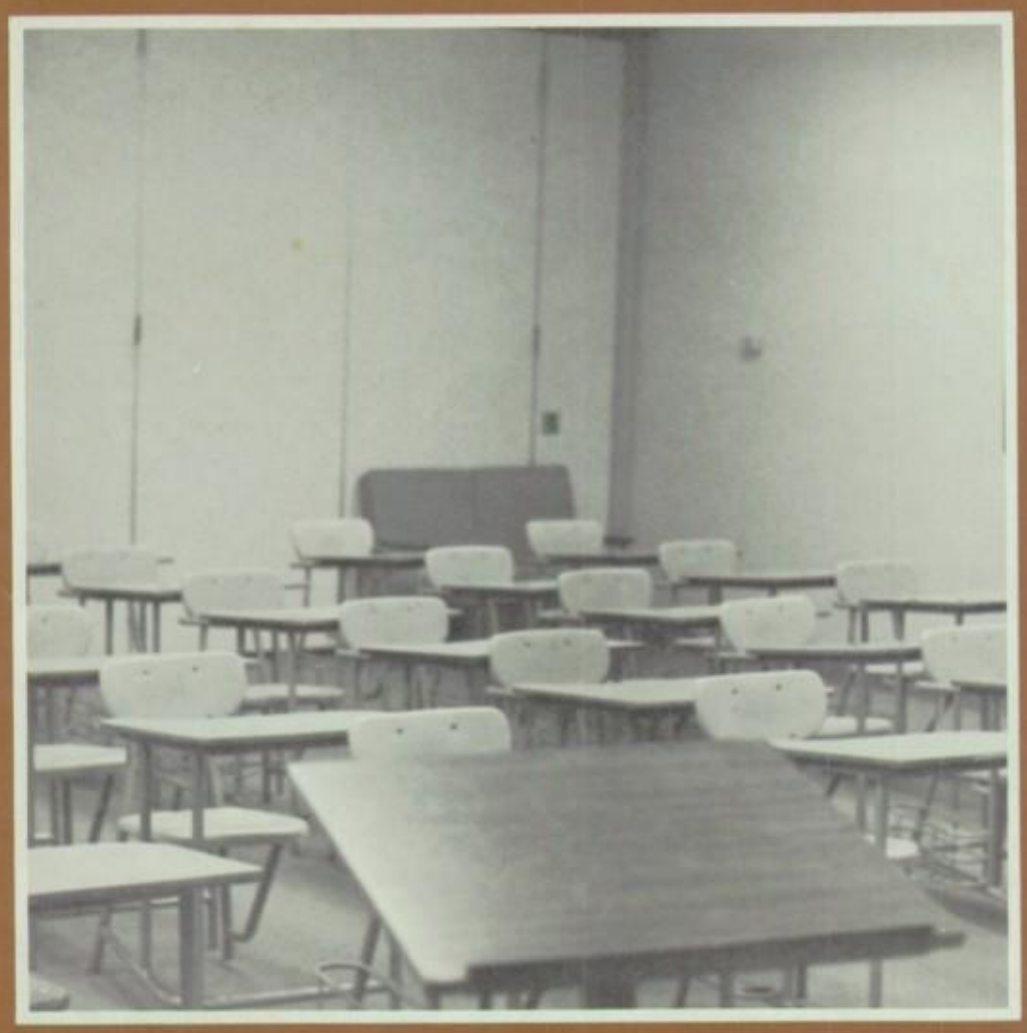


El Segundo's famous bell tower, one of the most picturesque views of our school.

"Enter to Learn. Go Forth for Service." The motto of E.S.H.S. forever.



The main entrance to El Segundo High. Many a student came...and went.



An empty classroom is not often seen in a busy day, but think how many things happened in that classroom. How many memories does it hold for you?

Ingredients right-

We Got It All For Us

Classes, clubs, sports, pep club, and teachers- All the ingredients for a high school year. But broaden that with a few rallies, dances, laughs and friends, and it becomes the perfect high school year.

Each year we try to broaden our minds with learning, broaden our ability with experience, and broaden our emotions with friendship.

All our lives we will try to broaden our lives, but what we did in high school will Broaden our Horizons forever.

ESHS Daily Life

Sometimes Good . . . ?

Life at ESHS was whatever students made it. They did what they did because that was all there was to do. Snack breaks were spent gossiping about the latest party or chattering about school events. On cooler, rainy days students gathered in the halls to toss frisbees or play baseball with paper wads or tennis balls. Occasionally some more ambitious student would go over his spelling words or history notes, but that did not happen too often. At lunch most students raced uptown to the liquor stores or health food stores for chow-Pepsi, sandwiches, chips and candy. Some students braved the cafeteria food, some went home and a few brown-bagged it. Class or club meetings were also a part of student life at lunch. Often students just sat on the lawn or in the snack area and chatted quietly about all sorts of things. Student life was not too exciting. It was just a day by day existence that broadened into a full school year, eventually!

Mike Marrone pitches to Blake Hunter as Clay Sides calls the pitch and plays short stop in a wild and crazy kind of a game of basetennis in the halls of ESHS.

Happy, carefree and spirit-filled Denise Prody breezes through life at ESHS, but a more serious Leslie Robison takes life one day and one problem at a time.

Students Connie Streifinger, Lisa Cason and Pam Littlewood brave the cafeteria food at lunch.

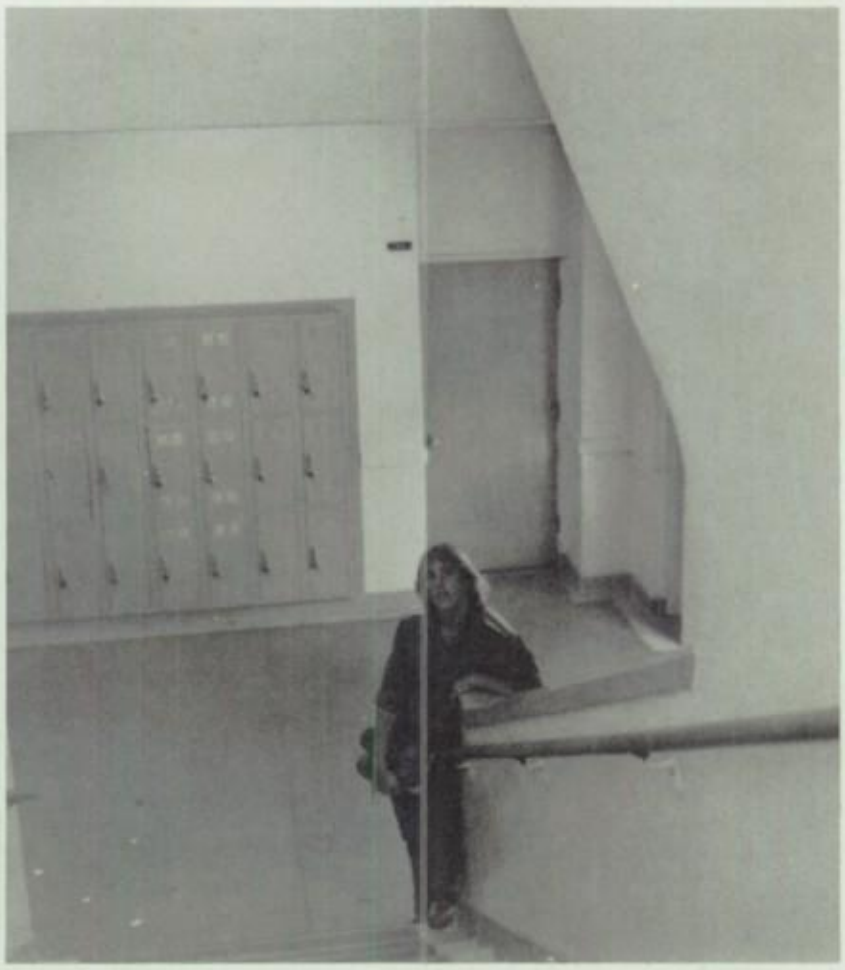
After a long and hectic day of high school life, Nora McElvain stops to daydream and collect her thoughts before having to face the remains of the day.

Many students enjoy gathering on the mote during snack and lunch to go over lessons or talk to their friends about the latest rock group or TV programs or maybe a recent movie.

Jeff Chichester flashes his pass to Mr. Banderas while Bobby Owens and Pat Haley seem to have little or no concern for their passes.



Blake Fine ponders over the question of class really being worth climbing all those stairs or not, especially after PE.

Mickey's spirit reigns

Mickey Adds To Homecoming

M-I-C-K-E-Y-M-O-U-S-E! Mickey's 50th anniversary was the 1978 Homecoming theme for ESHS. The Coronation Dance kicked off the week the Saturday night before by revealing Paul Bushrow and Julie Hurlburt, ASB President and Vice President respectively, as the 1978 Homecoming King and Queen. Monday was the Golden Key Treasure Hunt at lunch which rewarded the finder, Bess Grossman, with a prize Mickey Mouse mug full of candy. Tuesday was Mary Poppin's Kiddie Day and Halloween. Students dressed as their favorite kid or ghoul and enjoyed bringing their teddy bears or stuffed animals to school for a day. A tricycle race was planned for the noontime activity. Wednesday was Hat Day. Thursday was slave day where students could buy their favorite football player. Friday, the big day, was blue and gold day and the Homecoming Parade with Mrs. Donna Taylor, active PTA member and mother of Dave Taylor, as Grand Marshall. There was a rally which included the usual skits. The big game with Lennox was the climax of the week as the King and Queen and Royal Court and floats were presented at half-time. Epsilon Sigma sold Sees' suckers all week, Girls' League sold carnations and Halloween telegrams, and Student Government sold rah-rah shakers to add to the spirit and fun. Mickey Mouse and ESHS were both 50 years old, but the spirit was as new as the students of ESHS.

Teachers Anne Lenker, Wally Duffy, Henry Stuart and Bill Watkins prove that old Mousekteers never die, they just dance away.

Happiness and Joy

One Night To Remember

Excitement and happiness filled the air on the night of November 3, ESHS Homecoming. Spirit ran high all day as students prepared for the parade and half-time performance. In keeping with the theme "Disney on Parade", Mickey and Minnie Mouse, Pluto, and Donald Duck were roaming around school and the game, courtesy of Student Government. Parents and students wore spirit buttons and carried blue and gold shakers. As six o'clock drew near the floats, Band, Drill Team, and Pep Club gathered with the drivers of antique cars and their riders to parade down Main Street to the school. At half-time the Court arrived; Paul Bushrow and Julie Hurlburt ascended to their thrones. The senior float, a glittering replica of Disneyland complete with stuffed Disney animals, won first place. Fireworks and shooting rockets blazed the sky to add to the spirit of things. The entire Homecoming evening was one of happiness and joy as the Eagles defeated the Lennox Lancers. El Segundo High's Homecoming of 1978 was one night that will never be forgotten.

Westport and . . .

"We've Got Tonight"

Students enjoy dancing at the Coronation, especially to some of the slower songs. Mike Marron is contemplating what happened at the dance.

"We've Got Tonight" was the 1978 Coronation held at the Westport Beach Club in Playa del Rey on Saturday night, October 28th. Moments after their crowning, Queen Julie Hurlburt and King Paul Bushrow and the Homecoming Court danced to the theme music. Students from all grades were in attendance and enjoyed one of the most highlighted events of the year. Many juniors and their sponsors, Larry Misel and Richard Peterson, worked hard to plan and prepare for the Coronation. Their hard work paid off.

Spirit promoted at ESHS

Rallies Help Produce Spirit

"ESHS Fight, Fight, Fight! S-S- SEN, I-I-IOR, SEN, IOR, yea Seniors!" These were some of the familiar sounds that rang out from the Boys' Gym during some of our rallies. Pep Club put together rallies to boost spirit of both students and players. There were contests between the classes and skits about Eagle Pride. Pep Club spent days and sometimes weeks to prepare interesting skits to present to the students. Although the students were not always appreciative of their efforts, Pep Club never quit trying to put some fun and spirit into our horizons.

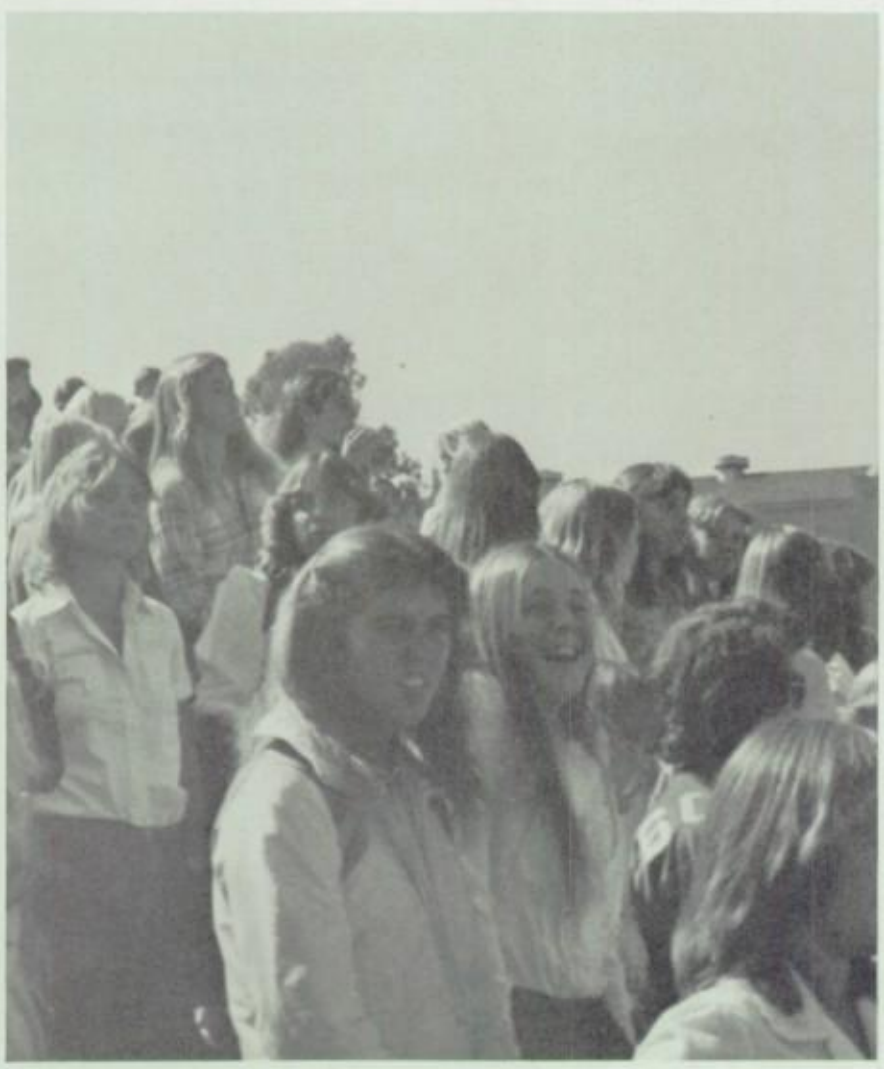
Terry Young keeps an eye out for any wild animals that might wander on to the field during one of the football rallies.



Students stand for the National Anthem at the beginning of one of the first full-rallies held at the football field.

Fewer assemblies at ESHS

ASB Card Sales Cut Assemblies

Assemblies were few and far between as ASB card sales reduced the available funds for such activities. The first all-school assembly was the traditional Coronation assembly where Homecoming candidates were introduced to the student body and the time and place of the Coronation Dance was revealed. "The Champions", a multi media assembly similar to the past "Desperado" and "Fat City" assemblies, gave students a message to live the good life by being champions in their sports and lives. A John Goddard assembly was planned for the second semester. Assemblies were a break from the routine and were sadly missed.

Sue Wurzell discusses details of the rally with Mr. Mc Naughton and Mr. Henderson before the rally. Rallies are work!

Fashions come to ESHS

Has ESHS Gone Vogue?

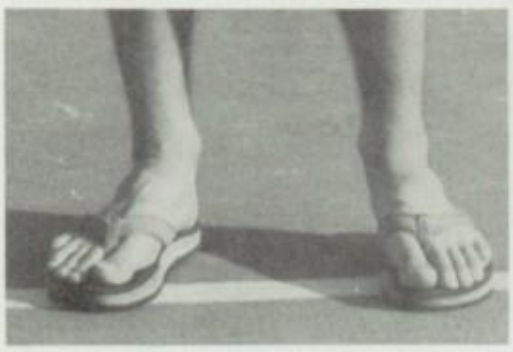
During the hot and dry days of September, students of ESHS dressed for the weather in as little as possible. A tube top with short shorts and thongs were among the dress of the girls. To make things easy, many girls got a permanent which consisted of a wash and wear hair style. The boys followed the dress style by wearing corduroy pants or OP shorts and shirt, and tennis shoes or beachcombers.

By October, the heat wave had passed and the girls wore full skirts or straight legged pants, big over blouses, and high heeled platform shoes. Gold chains and rings completed the outfit for the well dressed students.

Miss Petty agrees with Jeff Briese as he tells her, "OP's are the in thing!"

Jackie Kennedy is tickled with her new perm, and many ESHS girls have one to match!

One of the local stores displays a typical outfit for the girls at ESHS who like to stay in fashion.



Beachcombers are a very popular shoe to wear during hot days at ESHS.

High-heeled shoes are a very popular wear for high school girls.

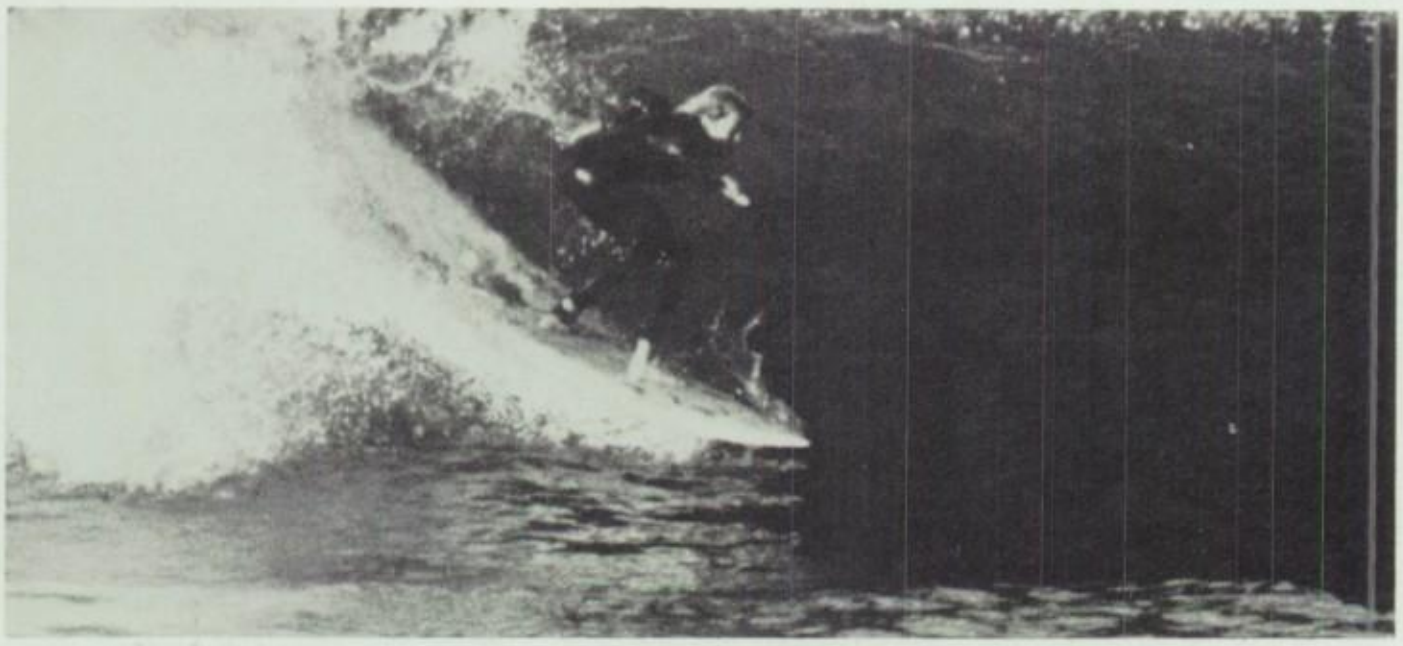
Shopping at the Fox Hills Mall was an enjoyable pasttime activity for students of ESHS.

Let's go cruisin'

Week-End Activities

From September to June, students filled their week-ends with fun, work, and loafing. On the hot week-end days of September and October, students found the beach the place to go, either to see or to be seen. For the die-hard surfers, riding the waves was always the way of forgetting school. Shopping centers such as Fox Hills Mall and the Hawthorne Plaza were also favorite hangouts for the week-end, whether it was to shop or visit a student at work. Parties, movies, football games, after game dances, or cruising around town in a car were all favorite week-end activities of ESHS students. Students often broadened horizons outside of school as well as in school.



A surfer enjoys his week-end activities by challenging a wave at a nearby beach.

Special Achievements

Students Have Many Talents

Students at ESHS not only kept up with the academic life in school, but many of them spent long hours and dedication towards the development of their natural talents. Our lives were enriched because of their efforts. While sports were generally acclaimed by the student body and the community, other talents were often taken for granted. Space is limited so we cannot begin to name all those who worked so hard. We will remember their contributions for years to come. Cathi Cummings sang in school, church, community and national choirs, including the Continental Singers. While with the Continental Singers she toured the northern United States, Hawaii, the South Seas, and New Zealand. Robin Lebowe sang, danced and acted in numerous productions in and out of school. She also taught jazz dancing. For many years Carrie Rugh has dedicated many hours to the perfection of her figure skating talent. Her hard work and sacrifice paid off when she was named first alternate for the United States Olympic Ice Skating team. In February of 1979, Carrie placed third in the U.S. National Figure Skating Championships. Another athlete was Dagmar Boettger; in spite of the lack of equipment and participation in gymnastics at school, she studied and practiced and appeared in numerous gymnastics events throughout the state, often winning or placing in the top. Terry Young was another talented student. She was a cheerleader and an outstanding softball pitcher. She was the most valuable Player in 4A-CIF as the ESHS Softball team won the championship in 1978. Marcy Clagg won the Optimist Club Photography award. The talents and achievements of these people, as well as all those we did not mention, went far toward broadening our horizons.

Carrie Rugh ends a figure-skating routine that won her second place in a competition in London. Carrie Plans to compete in the 1980 Olympics.

Robin Lebowe's singing and dancing talents are very rewarding.

Cathi Cummings plans to make Christian music her career.

Dagmar Boettger practices on the beam, just one of her achievements in gymnastics. Dagmar participated in many Class I and II meets throughout her career and placed in each event.

Mr. Doug Henderson beams with pride as he congratulates a happy Marcy Clagg on her first-place photography award from the Optimist Club.

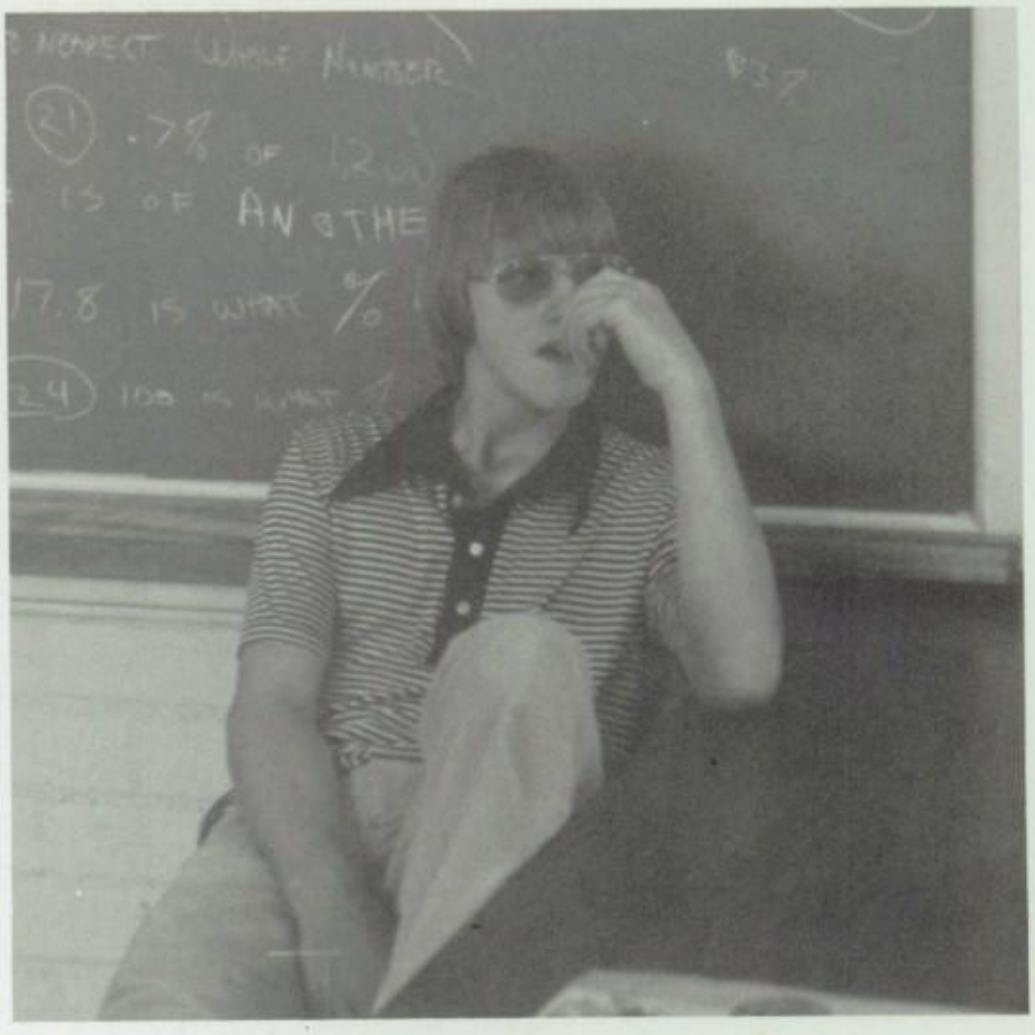
Terry Young led the 1978 ESHS Girls' Softball team to the CIF championship with her excellent pitching.

Make us or break us

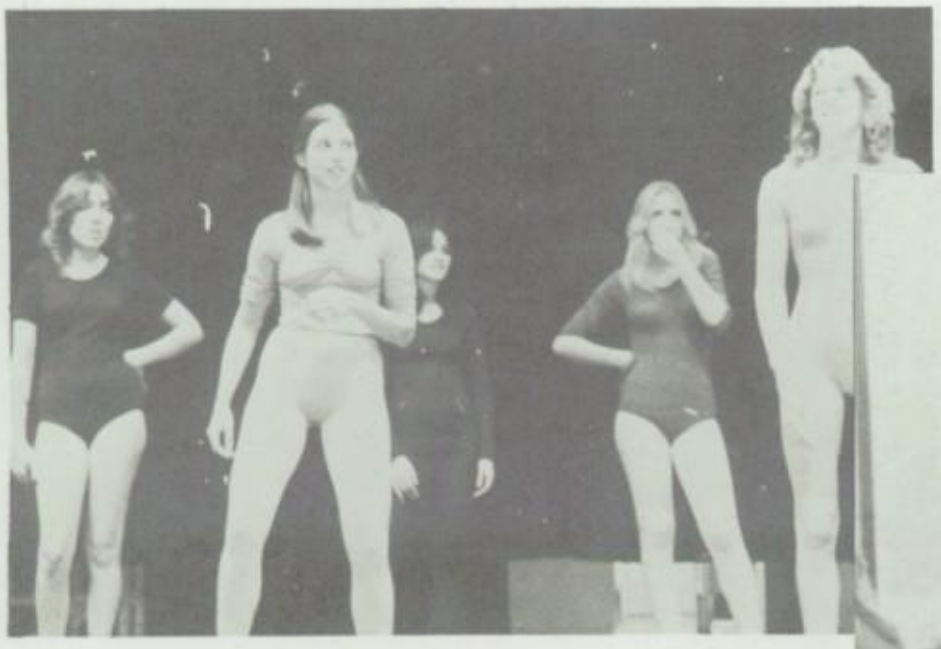
Academics Is A Rough Road

Classrooms, books, students, teachers, they all added up to academics. Those classes we took everyday made us or broke us, most of us didn't know it at the time, but they did.

Some of us graduated with honors, a few of us didn't graduate at all, and the rest of us were in between there someplace. The subject of the class depended on how well one did. It was a rough road but we knew it would Broaden our Horizon in the final test.



Jeff Steffer kicks back to think out some problems in business math, it's easier that way, everyone agrees.



Melissa Pinchuk tries a dance step in Performing Arts Workshop as the rest of the class watches the demonstration performed.

Mr. Cumming's U.S. History class is interested in something outside, but George Washington couldn't care less about it.

Prop 13 Cuts Down Classes

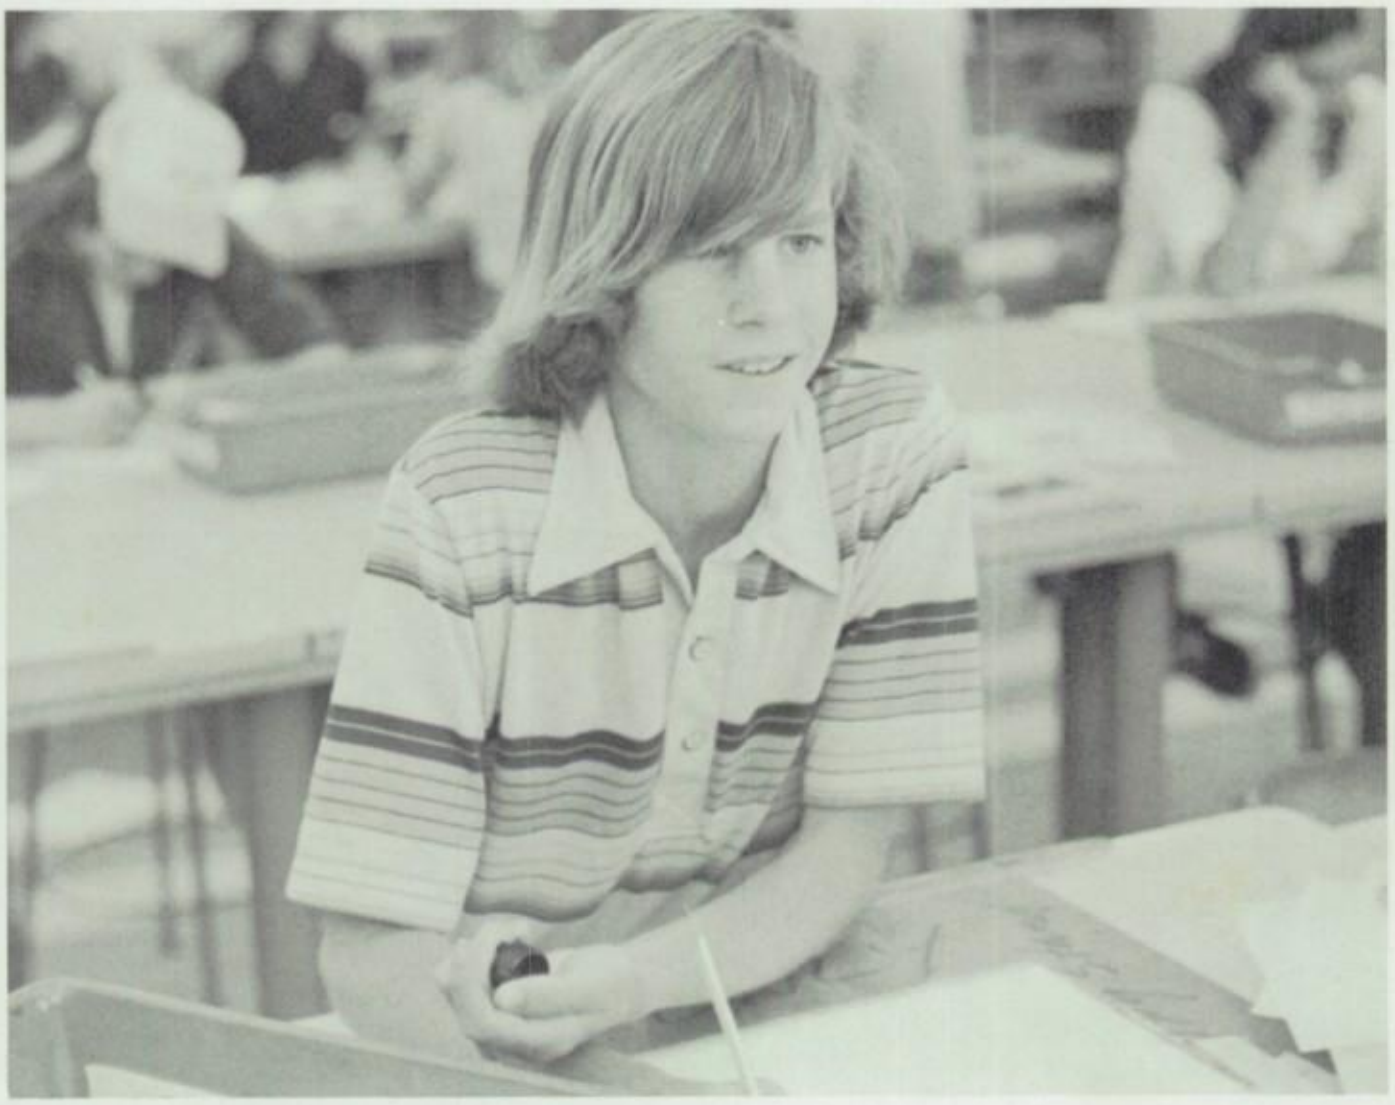
Reappearing on campus as if by magic, the associated student body embarked on the 1978-79 school year. Everyone hurried to his classes and was introduced to new courses. As the year progressed classes became more exciting to some and more of a burden to others. Even though some courses were withdrawn, such as, Ceramics and Masters of Suspense from the curriculum, the required classes of English, Social Studies and Math were still in operation. Most of the classes that were still around had a little less to work with. Films and fieldtrips were cut to a minimum. Nevertheless, spirit was high and students worked hard and diligently to broaden their own personal horizons.

Carmen Gomez reads an essay while Kathy Casey falls victim to the laziness of the afternoon.

Top: Bryant Whittaker ponders a difficult question about angles in Mr. Thorsen's Geometry class while Ron Hirzel listens intently to Ron Haas. Above: Patti Lance takes a few moments to practice before a grueling volleyball game in Physical Education.

Dave Combs and Laura Borders find that classes aren't always as boring as they seem.

Mr. Duffy explains the fine points of histrionics.



Paul Russel is fascinated by animation class and wonders if he'll ever be hired by Walt Disney Studios.

Learning skills

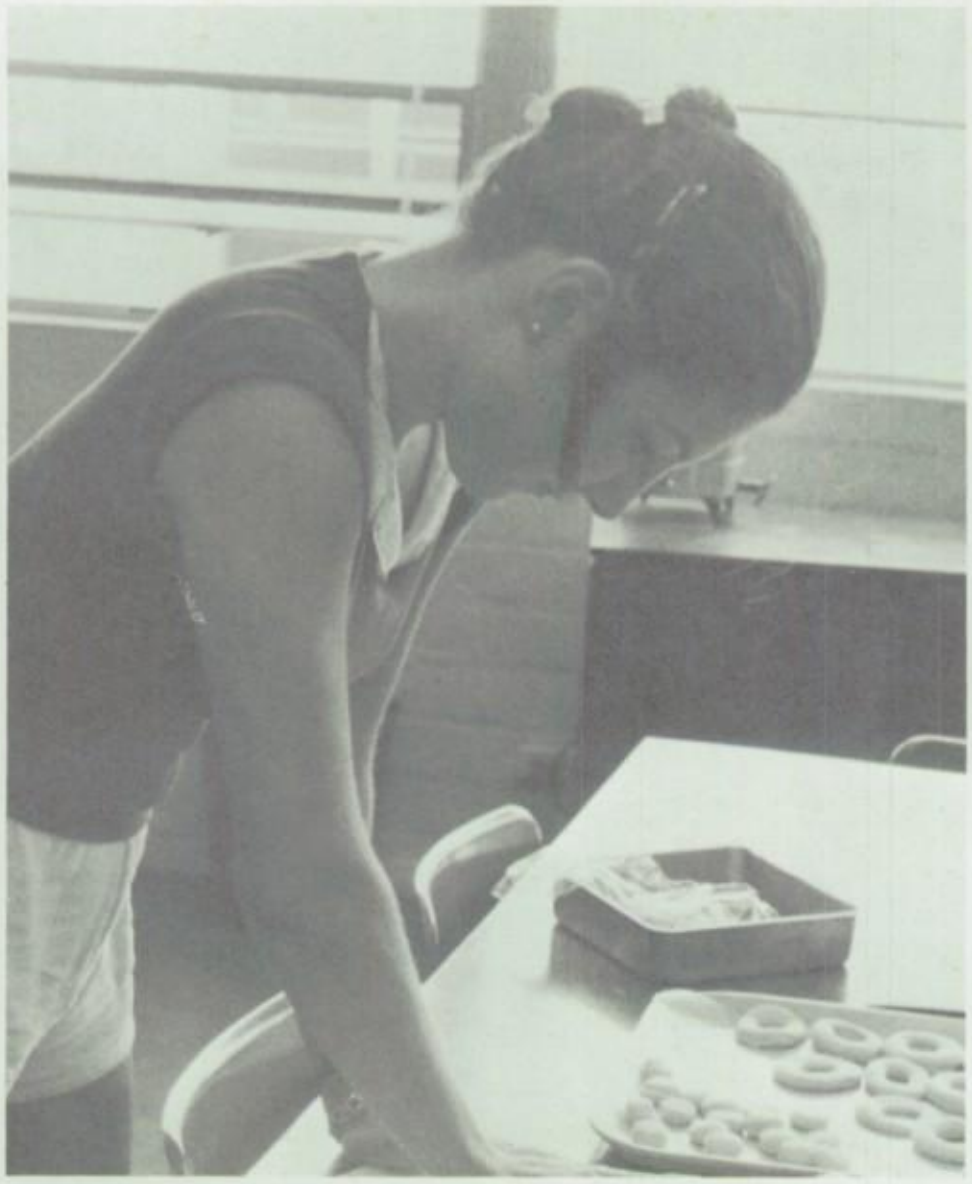
Looking To The Future

Shh! Listen, did you hear it? IT sounded sort of like a buzzing at times and then a humming, or even a crackling sound. It was changing constantly from a buzz to a hum to a crackle or even a grind. It came from the buildings along Mariposa Street, better known as shops. The sounds were the students building projects in woodshop, repairing and fixing cars in Auto Shop, or welding and creating in Metal Shop. In all these shop classes, students were learning skills to broaden their horizons.

Doug Griffith watches intently as a classmate demonstrates how to be efficient in metal shop so he can create what he wants with minimum waste.

Tony Harb consults Mr. Garinger on the width of a board he needs to complete a project in wood shop.

Brian Ramsey steadies his hand so not to make a mistake in wood shop.



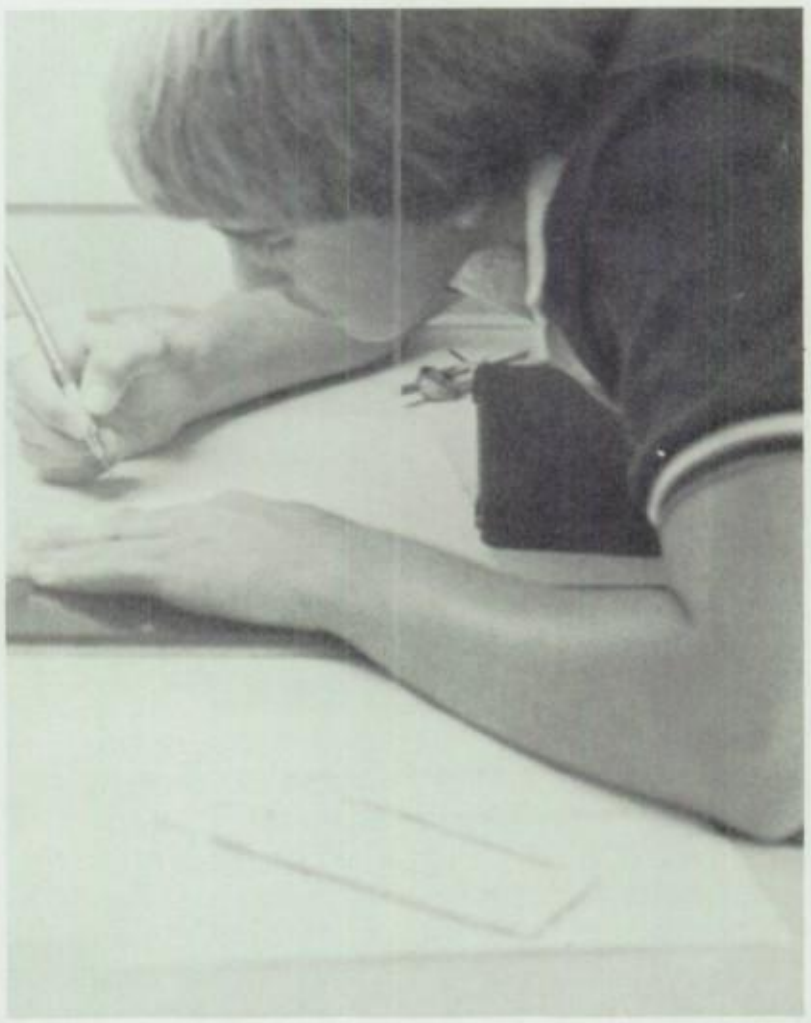
Lianca Van Dorn wonders how she got stuck with cutting these donuts.

Ms. Fisher helps Anne Wilder with a very sticky project in Foods Class.

All look near and far

Far Horizons

Food, clothing, and housing are probably the three most important things in a person's life. Classes such as sewing, drafting and foods reflect these values. Everyone can eat but how many can prepare a full meal? The people who took Foods this year can. They served as cooks, waiters/waitresses and busboys in the student operated restaurant. How many people can sew, and follow a pattern, and sell what they make? The people who took sewing this year can. The students sat up a boutique and sold what they made. How many people can design a home? The people who took Drafting this year can. These people are all broadening their own horizons.



Phil Norris works diligently at an imposing problem in Drafting, an incredibly complex housing project.

Ms. Laubert helps Brian Fisher sketch an incredibly complex leaf for an important project in beginning art.

Roger Pigott looks through the animation camera to see if his layout is even.

Kathy Miller skillfully places pieces of paper or her design so as not to ruin a lot of hard work.

Artists are creative

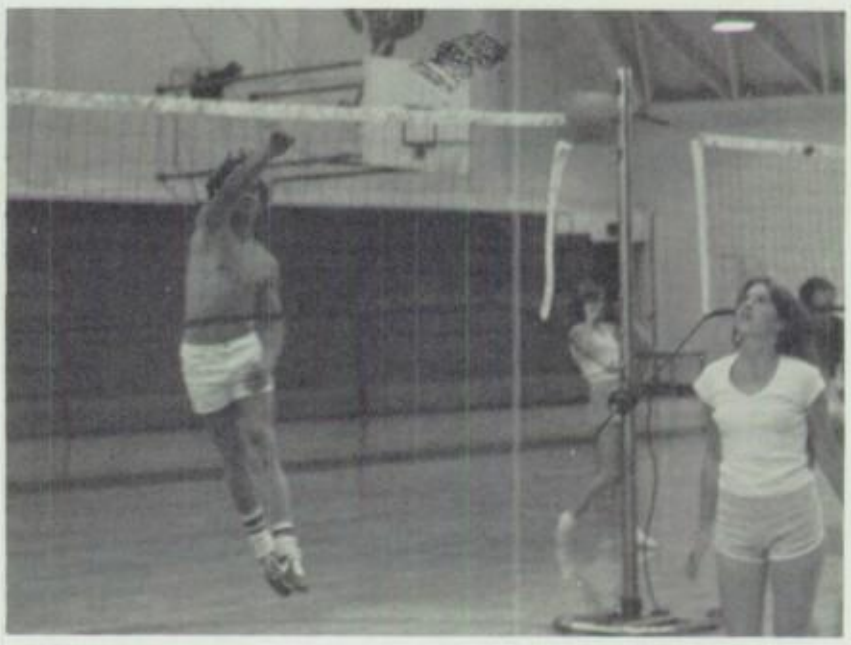
Art Has Style

Annoying, wasn't it? Having your picture taken all the time by those over zealous Photography students. Well, you had to be an eager "go-getter" to be in a class like that. After all, the classroom was moved from the East to West wing and the darkroom was smaller. Animation, another popular class, taught the basics of making an animated cartoon. Art classes worked on drawing, sketching and other techniques to create many magnificent designs. All three of these classes really helped to broaden the students horizons.

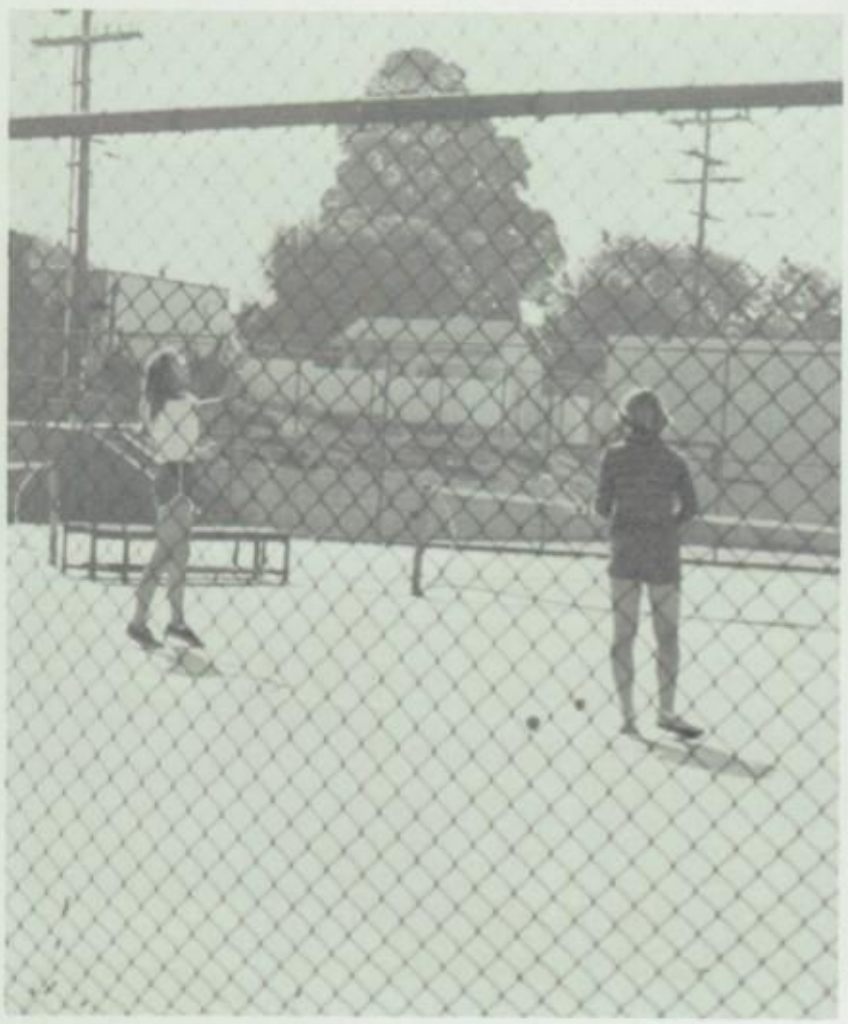
Two Photography students try to outsmart the Annual photographer but fail.

Mr. Morrris watches as one of his students serves like a real professional and may even be one in the future.

Mr. Brewer explains the official rules of touch football to a confused group of students.



Cash Reed spikes the volleyball with on fleeting blow while Patti Lance prepares physically and mentally to return it.



Two students find that tennis is a good way to exercise and keep in good health.

P.E. looses Jr. and Sr.

P.E. Is Cut Back

"Hey Joe, do you want to play tennis?" "Sure, Mike. You know it's too bad that juniors and seniors can't enjoy being out in tne sun getting exercise." "Yeah, Joe, Proposition Thirteen made the administration cut back P.E. so that it was only offered to freshmen and sophomores." "The only way juniors and seniors can take some kind of athletics is to try out for a varsity sport." "Or Pep Club or Drill Team." "Oh, yeah, I forgot. That's considered P.E. too." "Well, look at it this way Joe. The classes are smaller than last year when we were freshmen." "I know what you mean, Mike, but we have to look at the bad side too. Next year we'll be juniors and won't be able to take P.E." "I'd rather not think about that."

Stacy Rocca and Kathy Lance are wide eyed and open mouthed as they broaden their horizons in Mr. Duffy's class.

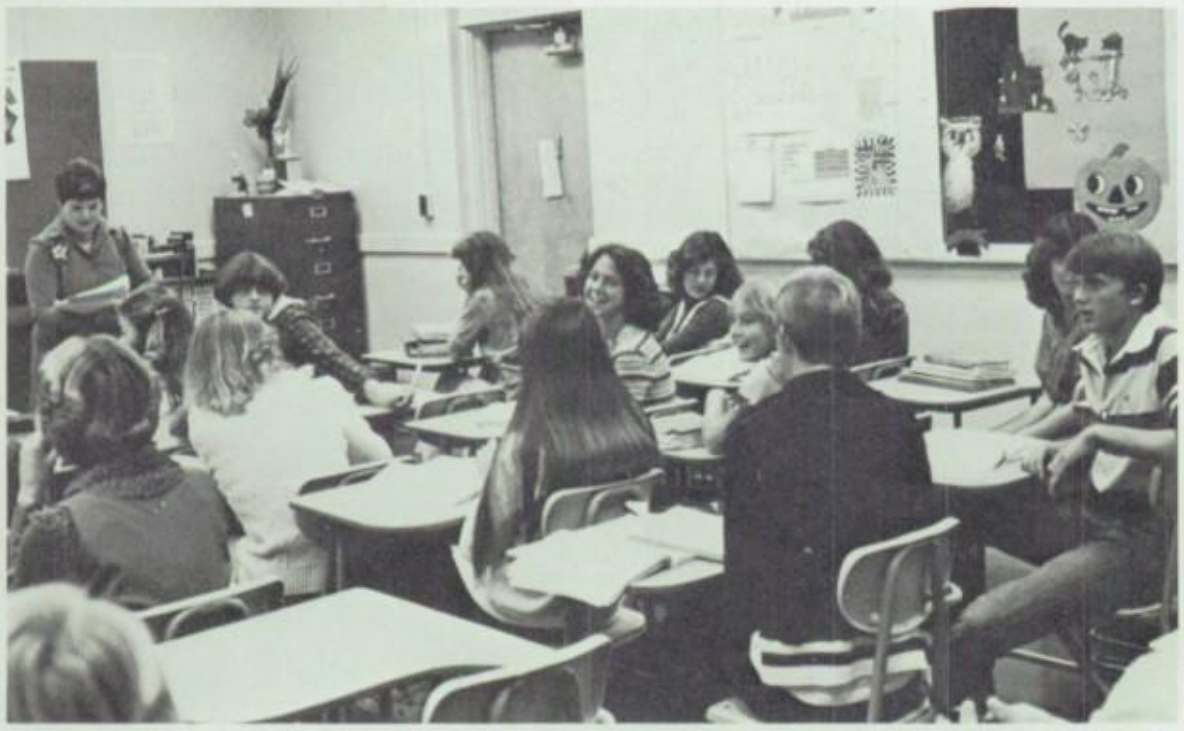
April Westover, Blake Fine, Paul Bushrow and Tracy Sherrill just couldn't care less about learning American Literature.

Lynn Cochran sounds off in one of Mr. Duffy's classes.

They like it not at all.

English Looms Over Our Heads

Looming over students' heads like a big, dark cloud for four years, English classes were the least liked classes of ESHS. Weekly vocabulary tests, grammar exercises and dull stories to read summed up the reasons why students dreaded English. Yet they had a wide variety of electives to choose to hate. Only Freshmen were required to take English I. All students were required to pass proficiency tests in the basics in order to graduate, but almost everyone passed. Students just hoped that beyond the horizon there would be no more English!!



Debbie South, Eileen Totman, Leigh Ann Smith, and Chip Weber find their classmates much more interesting than listening to Mrs. Peterson in Senior English.

Mitch Mahony shows his appreciation for one of Mr. Peterson's jokes in American Literature.

Catherine Frieze expresses her opinion of a vocabulary test, but Susan Botting goes at it.

Richard Woodcock, Bryant Whittaker and Lee Davis demonstrate three different ways not to do geometry.

Math Is A Real Challenge

In this age of computers and machines, who needs math? Students at E.S.H.S. do. They need one year to graduate. Although some students expressed disgust with their math classes, calling them boring, other students found math challenging and at times even enjoyable. Mr. Woodsmall's Algebra classes learned how to solve equations, word problems, sound waves, and how to build parabolic reflectors, whatever that is. Mr. Thorsen, better known as "Mr. T.", kept his students awake with his energetic antics. Mr. Whittington's Computer Programming classes worked after schools to use the computer time. "Love it or leave it" applied to the math classes. Many loved it, a few left it after one year.

John Simons and Sherri Heitzenreder know they have to concentrate if they are going to understand those math problems. To understand is to know.

Science classes were not always this amusing, but David Hirzel, Lynn O'Neil, and Teri Schrader have a happy moment in class.

Dissecting horizons

Science Helps To Widen Vision

Great? Average? Bizarre? What one word describes your existence? Science classes did not answer that question, but science classes did teach students to search for the reason for man's existence, and to learn through experiments and discussions. Earth Science, a course which studied the environment and weather and even some oceanology, was the general course for freshmen to settle the year of science needed for graduation. Life Science studied more living things and even dissected some animals to find the answers to life. Physics and Chemistry were the more advanced courses where students experimented with the theories of energy and motion, elements they greatly displayed in their daily actions. Biology was the laboratory course where students did projects on the study of living organisms.

Biology teacher Henry Stuart checks over the experiments he has planned for his biology students, including Mike Doucette.

Scott Whitcomb seems to have his finger on the pulse of the calculator as he works out a problem in physics class.

A bit more than English

Language Classes Broaden Horizons

Bonjour monsieur! Comment allez-vous? Buenos dias! Como esta? Does that sound like a bunch of mumbo-jumbo to you? Well, actually, it was a typical morning conversation between French and Spanish students. Many students had the privilege of taking Spanish from either Miss Hitchcock or Mr. Real. Those who chose French were taught by Mrs. Wolf. Besides learning the basics of the language, foreign language students also got acquainted with the various countries and cultures. As an added attraction, French students had the pleasure of having a native of Paris, France, Philippe Delta, a senior at ESHS, to talk with. Another fun part for French students was to read some of their favorite books in French: The Count of Monte Cristo, The Little Prince, and The Three Musketeers. Almost all French and Spanish students agreed that struggling through tests and nights full of homework, and all their hard efforts were rewarded by the satisfaction of being able to converse in a different language. It gave them confidence and pride and also came in handy when they didn't want anyone else to know what they were saying!

Connie Streifinger and Cammy Nealeigh share an amusing story, but Mike Gallo prefers listening to Senor Real.

Above: Cathy Oates finds that there are moments of boredom even in a French class. Below: Janene Tschumi laughs to herself as she endures another one of Senor Real's stories.

"Vive la France!" exclaims Paul Coles as he fluently delivers a speech in French.

"Now if I can just figure out how to turn it on!" mutters Kim Hellerud.

One student is cracking the books in Business Math, but Bill Kreins is more interested in chatting with Maggie Braddock.

Gigi Sorensen is busy with shorthand, but Ann Wiley likes to visit, and Lisa Lappin is off in Dreamland.

"But, what about this one?" asks Jan Dougherty as Mr. Hall offers his help.

Skills Learned In Business

A bit of make believe was brought into the East Wing classes as Model Office students became executives and secretaries of their own company. Much about management and running departments was learned. Business Math shocked students into the realization of the high cost of living, and taught them how to do a basic monthly budget. Typing students quickly memorized the keys and in no time at all were plickety-plunking away at high speeds. What may have looked like Arabic signs to most was really just a super short way of taking notes. A few junior and senior girls took Shorthand I and II and were able to write as fast as 100 words per minute! Just try to do that in longhand! This class and all the other classes of Business Education helped students achieve a proficiency in a variety of office skills. Many future men and women of the business world may come from our own little town of El Segundo, they are being prepared so well.

200 years isn't easy

Students Try Looking Back

Cramming 200 years into nine months is not easy, but the students who took U.S. History did it. Political Behavior, a senior requirement, focused mainly on current events in the United States, such as Busing, Proposition 13, and the role of our government in our lives. Contemporary World affairs, more commonly known as CWA, explored world issues pertaining to war and peace, population control, and Nationalism. Finally, but first in line, Freshman Studies introduced the wide-eyed freshman to the world inside and outside EL Segundo. History was not one of the favorite requirements at ESHS, but then not many requirements are. Perhaps the best thing that could be said about Social Studies was World Humanities, a combination of English/World History class for selected sophomores! Although it was hard work, the class offered valuable college preparatory training.

Performance was the key word for the Choral Department. The three choruses, Chorus I, Mixed Chorus, and Chamber Choir, started working towards broader horizons with the Southern California Vocal Association Festival, a competition for choirs. Choir Council consisted of a representative from each chorus. The representatives were Sharon Thomas, Brenda White, and Janet Webster. Choir Council worked with Miss Simons to make final decisions on fund raisers and social events planned.

Performing Arts, under the student direction of Robin Lebowe and Bess Grossman, combined song and dance to add some diversity to the annual Christmas Concert. Performing Arts also joined in the festivities of the annual "El Segundo Chorus Night at Shakey's" in early November.

Special Education

They learned how to cope with problems of regular classes, such as, Social Studies, English, and Science.

Annual Staff Earns Credit

People have been known to say that the Annual Staff had an easy job. A question that was heard throughout the halls on the day that the annual was given out was, "Why couldn't you guys have worked harder and done a better job?" The Bay Eagle staff complained that they did twice the work that the Annual Staff did, and they still had to take vocabulary tests to receive English credit. Even the Annual Staff agreed that they shared this opinion before they started to work on the annual. Little did they know how much work it was.

The Annual Staff started working on the first day of school. They learned how to draw layouts and count copy. The photographers started right away to capture life at ESHS in pictures. The staff learned the meaning of deadlines and how to work under pressure. They used their creative ability to describe life at ESHS in words. The Annual Staff put in many long hours of work at home to put the yearbook together. They were better for the experience and ready in one small way to face the outside world of pressure and responsibility.

12 Women Dominate

Females dominated the Bay Eagle staff as they broadened their horizons with many changes in style and technique. Eight issues were produced, each with the emphasis on investigative reporting of problems concerning the students. Inspired by editor Sandy King who attended a UCSB journalism workshop during the summer, students experimented with new layout formats. Polls were conducted by the newspaper staff to learn the opinions of the students. The Bay Eagle staff was expected to take vocabulary tests if they wished to receive English credit, as well as to work hard to meet all their deadlines. A new sense of camaraderie was achieved this year when the staff members wore their "Bay Eagle" tee-shirts on the days the Bay Eagle came out.

Trades And Training

El Segundo High School offered more to students than just academic classes. Students had a chance to excell in other fields of education. For instance, Work Experience gave students on the job training. Scroc, on the other hand, gave students a chance to learn a trade at no cost to the student. There were many diverse trades to choose from at Scroc, from dental assisting to architectural construction. ESHS students continued to broaden their horizons in learning and achievement.

Media And Library Aides

Whether checking out a book or a movie projector, media and library aides work hard to please students and faculty. With the help of Ms. Jac Lowell and Ms. Destene Carlson, media students learned how to use various equipment, from ditto machines to complex video taping systems. They also made programs and bids for various games and dances. Under the supervision of Ms. Doris Rosenberg library aids learned to help students find the various books needed for their classwork.

Mrs. Jac Lowell is very pleased with her work in media.

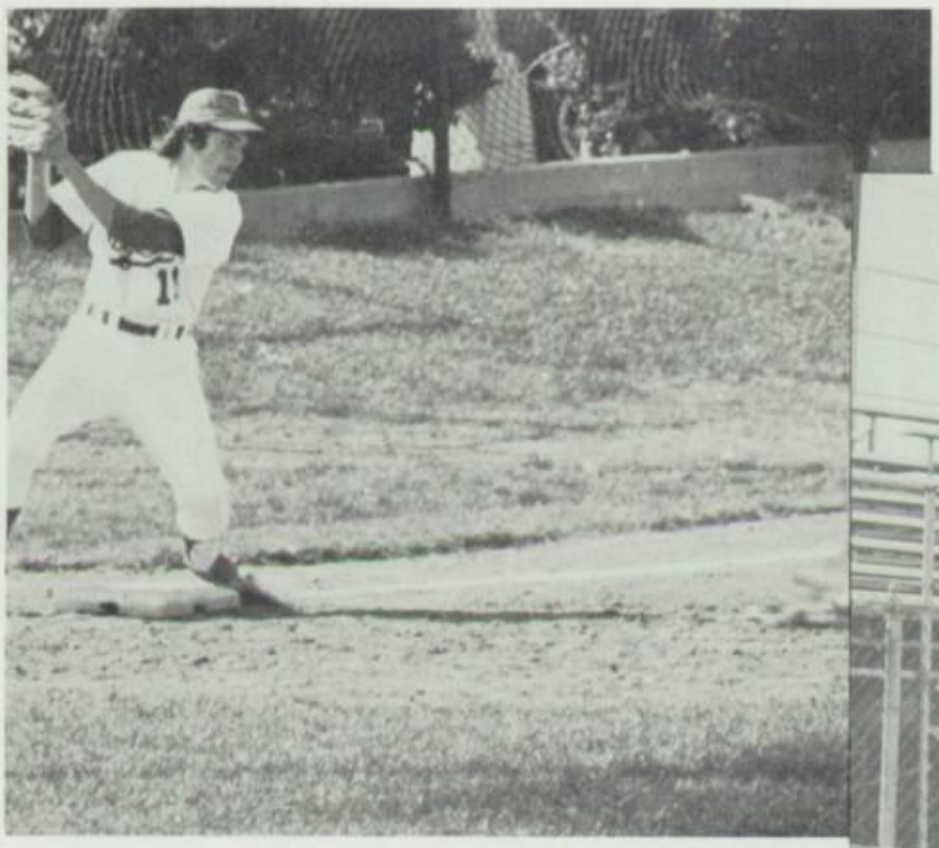
Not for men only

Sports' Teams Have Both!

Football, Basketball, Waterpolo, Track, Cross Country, Baseball, Wrestling and Volleyball provided the thrill of sports at ESHS. Many students belonged to a team and gave much of their time and efforts to do the best job possible in their chosen sport. Not always were they successful as at times the scoreboard indicated a loss instead of a win, but it was the spirit and thrill of participating that counted. Although men dominated the sports field, a few women also contributed to the glory of ESHS sports. Girls' volleyball, basketball, softball and cross country teams were very outstanding. Two girls played on the water polo team and provided the extra force needed for victory. Sports did broaden the horizons for participants and spectators both, and even a moment or two of pleasure to school life.

Coach Becskehazy explains a strategy to the varsity water polo team so they can win against their rivals, which is anybody who gets in their way.



Dave Combs knows this runner is a clear out-he goes for the double play to the second baseman, which could make the winning point.

Kary Clements is a mere step away from victory as his opponents close in for the second and third place titles for their team.

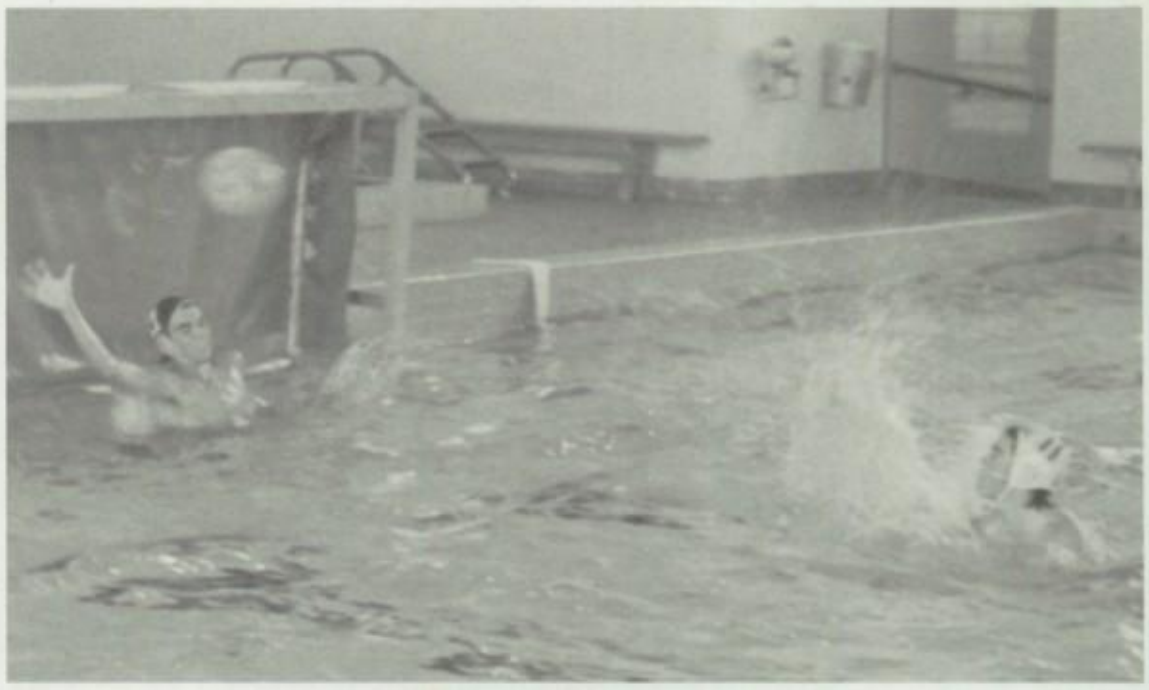
Reclassified 4-A

Best Season Since 1968

After a successful season in '77, the CIF Board re-classified El Segundo's Water Polo team 4-A for the '78 season. The team responded by turning in a 14-3 over-all record and a 4-1 Bay League record that gave them second place and a CIF berth. During the year, the Aquamen had many achievements. They beat 3-A seeded Glendale not once, but twice; the first was a 13-12 overtime win at Glendale. The second was the championship game of the South Bay Water Polo Tournament, again a one goal win, 9-8. Another was that they dominated three quarters of a practice game against Indio; last year's 3-A champs. Finally, El Segundo had six players selected to the all-Bay League team. Gary Thorne and Roger Martin were selected to the second team, the latter missing the first team by one vote. Pat Andrews, Adam Guy and Phil Andrews made the first team. Bob Harrop was given the honor of Bay-League Player-of-the year.



John McNicholas scores one of his many seasonal goals on a penalty shot. This one capped a 21-7 victory over Loyola in the first game of the South Bay Water Polo Tourney.

Phil Andrews directs Kelly Stuart into key defensive position to guard a man.

Beat CIF seeded teams

Win South Bay Tourney

It required beating four teams to win the sixteen-team South Bay Water Polo Tournament. And El Segundo won all four of their games to sweep the tourney. Loyola was out-swam, as fast-break best described the Eagle attack. The aquamen were able to score at will and had a 13-3 half-time advantage in the 21-7 win. Against Fountain Valley, El Segundo had a tougher time. In the first half the Eagles seemed too tense allowing Fountain Valley to stay only a few goals away. But in the second half they loosened up to win 14-5. As teams were elminated, the competition increased. On the next day John Muir High put up a tough fight maintaining a 4-4 half-time tie.

However, ESHS tired out the Muir team in the second half and held them to one goal as El Segundo scored nine in the 13-5 victory. In the final championship game against Glendale, the two teams see-sawed back and forth, neither team having more than two goal lead. Revenge was in the Glendale air as ES had beaten Glendale earlier this year in over-time 13-12, when the Eagles had overcome three goal deficits three times. However, the Eagles prevailed as El Segundo eventually won 9-8 to win the tourney. Bob Harrop was chosen as the Tournament's Most Valuable Player. Adam Guy was another standout with his incredible steals that drove other teams to distraction. Phil Andrews had fourteen saves in the championship game against Glendale, the same amount he had in their first meeting. El Segundo, by beating some of the toughest teams in CIF, were champions.

Lose tough one

Buena Park Too Fast

14-3 record for one of the best seasons in a long time is not too bad. However, the 1978 Water Polo season ended rather abruptly and on a sour note in CIF as the Eagle Aquajocks bowed to Buena Park 12-10. The game was well played, but refereeing errors on key plays added to the loss. There were also a rash of untimely bad passes in the see-saw battle. El Segundo came from behind in the second quarter to take an 8-5 lead. But in the second half they tried again and again to mount an offensive down the pool only to turn the ball over to the Buena Park Coyotes one way or another.

Pat Andrews, Gary Thorne and Lee Davis set-up the man down play.

They had the best quality and the most dedication which is an important aspect on a winning team. They had good execution and confidence in themselves."

The young Water Polo team posted an 11 win 4 loss over-all record and a 4-1 4-A Bay League record for second place. Their solitary loss was to Mira Costa. Such a record and such a claim was certainly rewarding to the team, the coach and the school.

League Champs

Push On To Victory

Cross Country runners were champions, and they proved it by capturing their first championship with a season record of 7 wins and 0 losses. Contributing to this successful season were Alfredo Rosas, Greg Maroukas, and Chris Goodwin. The Boys' Varsity team even survived a series of injuries and illnesses to go on to victory. Coach Terry Crystal's strong encouragement and enthusiasm also contributed to the winning spirit of this winning team.

Eagles Want Victory

Eagle Team Tries Hard

Winning did not come often for the Varsity Football team. They did defeat Aviation, the undefeated team until that time, and won the Homecoming game against Lennox. They played some tough teams in the pre-league season, such as Culver City. After losing to Beverly Hills, the Eagles fought back to beat Lutheran. From there on they had a run of bad luck, losing four straight games, until defeating Lennox. The team had many problems, like numerous injuries and adjusting to the new coach, Clyde Dougherty. The season record ended with three wins and six losses, which tied them for sixth place in the Pioneer League. It was a year of limited success for the trying El Segundo High Eagles.

Clyde Dougherty, teacher of Freshman Studies, broadened his horizons this year as he replaced Steve Newell as coach for the Varsity Football Team.

Bad Luck Hits Frosh-Soph

Low Horizons On The Field

Bad luck and inexperience plagued a young but spunky Frosh/Soph football team. In their struggle through a 3-6 season, the players who completed the season matured into good athletes. After several losses, the team chalked up a big win over Aviation with the help of Rob Laffoon who had an outstanding performance. Coaches Larry Misel and Bill Brewer also cited the performances of Aaron Menegazzi and Mark Fontechio as inspirational. Team spirit and oneness of players helped the team develop as the season progressed.

This opponent must be kidding himself if he thinks he's going to catch the ball with three Eagles blocking him.

Volleyball finds unity

Growth Through Volleyball

Volleyball teams had their ups and downs this year. Although JV'S had a 2-16 season and Varsity 3-12 season, Coach Debbie Cocks felt that it was hard to measure the success of the season by the teams' records. Coach Cocks also felt that the teams' real capabilities were by the victories over Palos Verdes and Redondo. One of the most important skills that both teams worked on was learning to play as a unit and not as individuals. Many of the players were noted for their achievements, including Rose Pepe as the most valuable player and Patti Romano as the best defensive player for the varsity team. Sherri Fitzgerald and Kari Hapke were just two of the girls to recieve awards for the JV team. Even though volleyball didn't have a winning season, they had a good season because it was a growing experience for everyone involved.

Patti Romano and Betsy Stephens ponder an up-coming game. They are hoping for a victory.

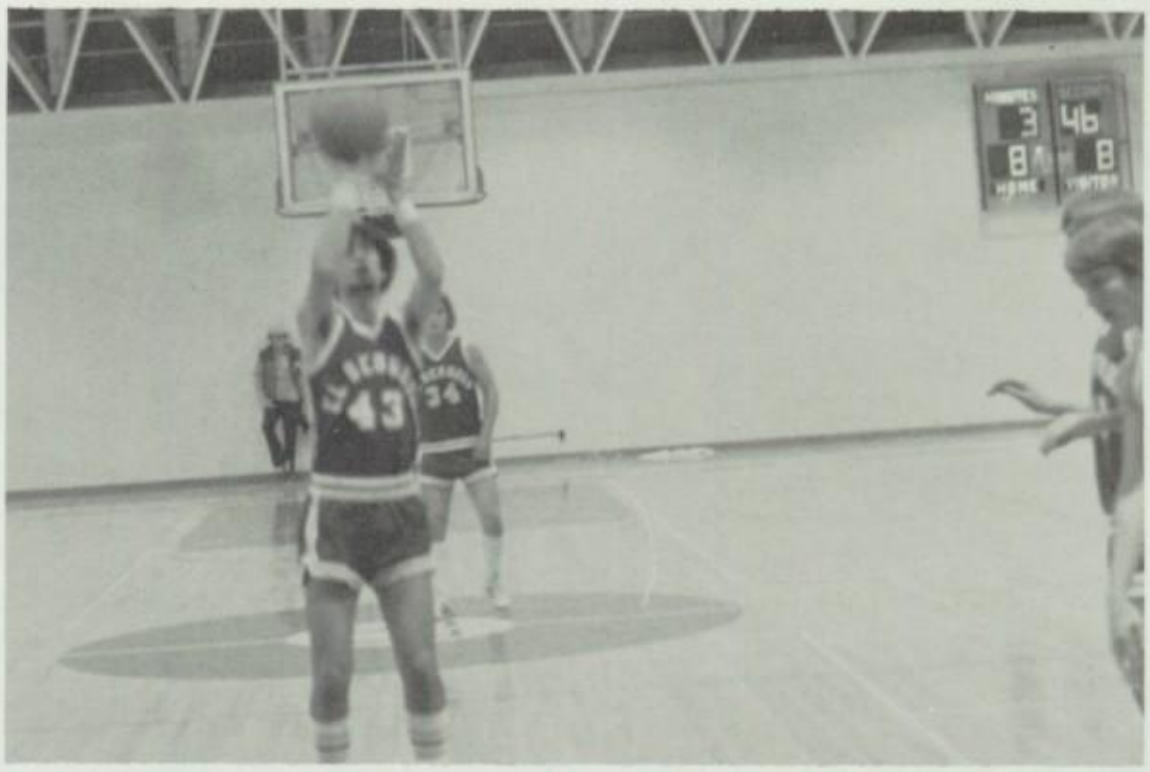
Team determined

Does Well In League

Losing four games by four points or less, the boys' Varsity Basketball team ended the season with 7 wins and 7 losses for fourth place in Pioneer League. Had the team been at full strength every game, the results would have been different. The turning point or key game was the overtime loss to League-leading Aviation. After that game, the team was emotionally down and was defeated by Lawndale. Coach Joe Hern, returning to coaching after several years' hiatus, credited Dave Mote with the most outstanding and consistent performance on the team. He also praised George Wiley for his team leadership and inspiration. The entire team was complimented for their efforts and determination.

Joe Hern returned to coach the Varsity to a 7-7 record.



George De Maria shoots a pair of freethrows that could break the eight-eight tie early in the first quarter of a Pioneer League game against Hawthorne.

Eagle center Kary Clements shoots a fifteen foot jump shot from the baseline against Miraleste as forward Bryan Gwinn moves into rebounding position.

George Wiley shoots a freethrow as Bryan Gwinn, Kary Clements, and George De Maria stand by for a potential rebound to set up another offensive play.

Randy Evans anticipates what he should do in the event there is an Eagle turnover and Miraleste should get a fastbreak.

Rookie majority

Can't Stop Frosh/Soph

Team work was the strategy of the El Segundo Frosh/Soph Boys' Basketball team during the 1979 season. The majority of the team were rookies with only three returning players, but the team had a good season none the less. Coach Darrel Roach worked hard with the team to aquire a feeling of togetherness. This team spirit carried the Eagles to a 8 win-5 loss season. The Frosh/Soph team gained a lot of basketball knowledge through all their work.

Eagle players Matt Heck and Jaime Higbee play good defense as they guard their Hawthorne opponents in a hard fought game. The Eagles went on to be victorious in the game.

Limited success

Not Losing Just Not Winning

Girls' Varsity Basketball began the season with limited success. One reason was that the team was mostly sophomores and juniors who were inexperienced on the varsity level. Another reason was that EHSH participated in the 4-A league, which meant they played teams from much larger schools such as Torrance and Rolling Hills. Even with such competition and lack of experience, Girls' Varsity Basketball showed spirit and determination.

Long hard season

Proves Unsuccessful

JV Girls' Basketball had a very disappointing season. Lack of experience was part of the problem. Most of the team had never played school basketball before. This meant the the players had to start from scratch in learning to work as a team, and to learn the basics. Such work took time and there was not enough time to perfect everything. It was a long, hard season for the girls. Their record was 0 wins and 7 losses.

Varsity Wrestling had a very successful season. The team placed second in the league at the end of the season. They tied for first in the Pioneer League Tournament. There were many good wrestlers on the team. Ty Laffoon, Rob Laffoon, and Clay Sides were first in the league and went to CIF competition. Another hopeful, John Hutson, broke his leg and could not finish the season.

Many reasons

Not The Best Year

It wasn't the best season for the El Segundo High School Varsity swim team. In fact, it was far from it. One reason for the failure of success was that swim season was re-scheduled by the CIF board from January through March to November 20 through February. This meant that the season ran through Christmas vacation, and, with swimmers going on vacation, practice was on a limited basis, and some who were out of the water too long were out of shape and had to get into shape again which was a long process. Since it wasn't a good season, the attempt for the Ocean League crown was aborted in favor of a chance at a Frosh/Soph win. This decision required the dropping of all Varsity Sophomores back to Frosh/Soph.

Second place

Law Of Averages

Although it was an average year for the Frosh/Soph swim team, there were some good moments. They had a 3-2 League record but a 4-5 overall record. Frosh/Soph swimmers improved throughout the year. Sophomores Dave Brown and Dave Baxter, freestylers, improved their times as the season continued. Freshman standouts were Jeff Siadek, breast stroke; Lee Francis, freestyle; and Maureen McNutly, all-around. However, even with all the strong swimmers, the Frosh/Soph, just couldn't get it together at League Prelims, even with the Varsity Sophomores lowered down to the Frosh/Soph level. In the end, the best they could do was second place. It was truly an average year.

Outlook good on

Varsity's Season

Baseball season started out with a bang. The first game Varsity played was against the alumni with major and minor league players. Although the varsity team lost to the alumni, it was a close 7-6 which gave the alumni a run for their money.

Coach John Stevenson was hopeful for the rest of the season. His varsity team came through the El Segundo Tournament showing good form and hope for the Palos Verdes Tournament and regular season games. Stevenson commented, "We have to do good in the League before thinking about CIF." El Segundo High's past Varsity Baseball teams have gone to CIF under Stevenson's coaching staff. This years' team shouldn't be any different. It's tradition at ESHS!!

Playing on their home field, Varsity pitcher George DeMaria gets off a fast ball as Dave Combs waits for the play to go into action. This could be the winning play.

Big and popular

Track Looks Like Winner

Track was a seemingly popular sport at ESHS this year. Boys worked out at the track during 6th period athletics every day. They were also seen around school proudly sporting their new track sweat jackets. A new novelty, girls' track team, was introduced at ESHS this year. Twenty-two girls of various ages put on their track shoes and worked hard to excel at all facets of the sport: long jump, 50-yard dash, 440 run, relays, broad-jump, and others. The two teams worked together to train for their very competitive season in the CIF Pioneer League.

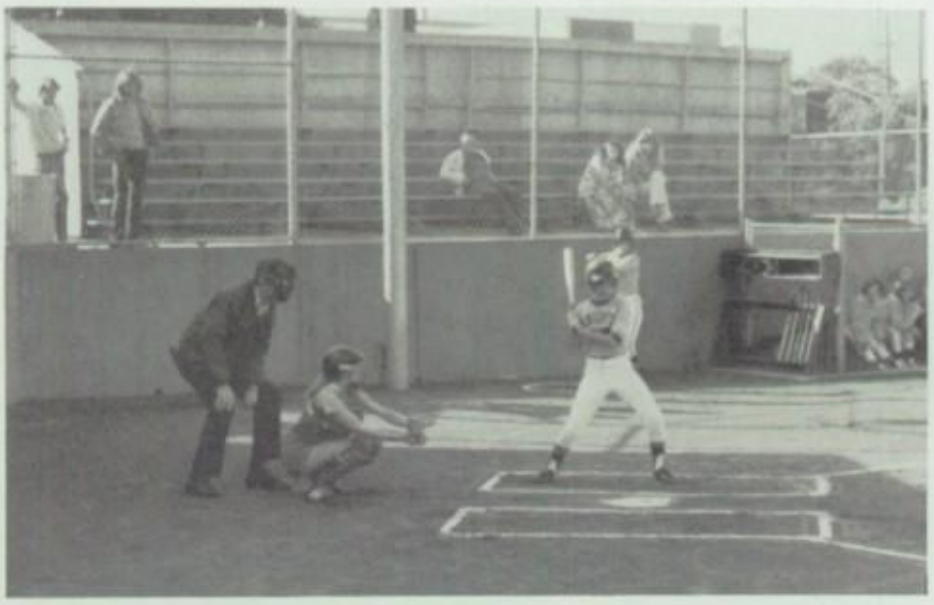
Returning players

Make Season A Winning One

As softball season approached in February everyone was hopeful of a good season. With only one new player on the team, and all of the other girls returning from previous years, only the best could be expected. After the Varsity team won their first game, it was evident that the team was out to win and not just to play ball.

With Coach Larry Misel coaching softball for his first time, things were a bit unorganized in the beginning, but the team shaped up and became a winning one.



Jan Dougherty is crouched down low for a good catch against challenging team player. With the help of Jan's catching, ES won the game.

Clubs bring life

There Is A Club For You

Clubs and organization added life and spirit to the horizons of ESHS students. Almost every interest or talent had a club. CSF was an honorary club. Epsilon Sigma and Key Club were service clubs. Girls' League, French Club and Spanish Club were social clubs and interest clubs. AFS promoted understanding of new horizons. Pep Club, Band, Drill Team-all had goals and objectives to help students to get involved in school and community activities. There was a club for every horizon and a new horizon to be found in every club.

One rank at a time! Drill Team practices for home games and rallies. Drill Team is another spirit promoting organization.

Students rule ESHS

Democracy At ESHS

A regular meeting of the ESHS Student Government was called to order at 10:18 on Wednesday, November 22, 1978. Julie Hurlburt presided, Mr. Peterson sponsored, and there were no visitors. There were thirty members present.

Thus began another day in the life of Student Government. After the opening formalities, they discussed three requisitions and granted date requests for dances and basketball concessions. The price of hay for the Sadie Hawkin's Dance was also discussed. Julie Hurlburt reported that Powder Puff posters were up. Since no more business was pending, Stacy Wills moved for adjournment and the meeting was adjourned at 10:41. Democracy at ESHS was not always exciting.

Out Of Touch And Out Of Sorts

"Who are they? What do they do? I don't even hear about them!" These and similar remarks were heard about Student Government at the beginning of the year. But Student Government was alive and working every third period with sponsor Richard Peterson. Student Government was the overseer of all the activities in school. They prompted the sale of ASB cards by having a lottery drawing, first place winner receiving a free Coronation bid and a free dinner at Gullivers restaurant. They improved teacher-student relations by having teachers for secret pals. They provided for Homecoming activities and Christmas spirit. Student Government improved their image and their spirit as the year went by. It was not easy being a leader, and Student Government found that problems arose even when everyone was involved. Broadening horizons was a challenge for Student Government.

Key Club goes co-ed

Key Club Liberates

Key Club broke tradition, broadened their horizons, and, in keeping with the times, went co-ed! Only three of El Segundo's liberated females joined. Key Club, a high school counterpart of Kiwanas, was primarily a service club for school and community, and opened to all students who wished to serve. Members of Key Club ushered at school events, delivered books to shut-ins, served as chain gangs for frosh-soph football games, and sold football programs. Key Club and Epsilon Sigma joined forces to build a float for homecoming. Sponsor Bill Watkins and President Frank Heitkamp steered the club through a busy and enjoyable year. Next year, maybe a female president??

Remember those Thursdays when several senior girls wore blue-flowered skirts and smart white jackets? They were the Epsilon Sigma girls, belonging to an honors service club, which was an affiliation of Quota Club, a women's club. Members applied in their junior year, and had to have a minimum GPA of 3.0 plus good citizenship. The girls took part in school activities, helping out as ushers. They planned bake sales and other events to raise money for a scholarship to a deserving club member and for charitable donations. Besides broadening horizons by service to school and community, the girls had memorable times: parties, dinners, rollerskating, and building the traditional Homecoming float with Key Club. One of the highlights of the year's activities was initiating the new members, which was always an unforgettable experience.

Girls cry loud

A Sponsor Needed Now

"A Sponsor! A Sponsor! Our Girls' League needs a Sponsor!" was the cry from Girls' League in September. Mr. Jack Wilson even filled in for one meeting of Girls' League as they searched high and low for a sponsor. But Mrs. Anne Lenker, business teacher, saved the year and was the new sponsor to replace Nancy Redmond who left ESHS. Julie Hurlburt, president, planned many activities for this active club. Although the Annual Freshman Girls' Orientation ran into problems and only a few freshmen girls attended, Girls' League pulled through the year by selling Halloween and other holiday telegrams, and by selling carnations for Homecoming. They also sponsored the Valentine's Dance and Girl of the Month. A new leader and a new year offered new horizons for the girls of ESHS.

Students Exchange

American Field Service was pleased to have Hadeel Talli from Jordan as an exchange student this year. Hadeel thought ESHS was an attractive small town usually having a clear, blue sky, except for an occasional day of fog. She was impressed with the beautiful high school. In Jordan the students stay in one room and the teachers move around. She said our way of moving the students around gave her exercise! Hadeel thought El Segundo is a "nice place to visit."

AFS did many fun things, such as having their annual progressive dinner on Halloween night, and their yearly pancake breakfast. For the first time they went to AFS Day at the Pomona Fair, and sold telegrams, which they translated into different languages. Sherry Finke, Connie Streifinger, and Diane Aikins of ESHS were the local high school candidates for AFS.

"Venez et Amusez-Vous" was the famous French Club slogan, and it was easy to do just that. French Club had some interesting social events including a fun Christmas party. Mrs. Wolf accompanied the club and other selected French students to the French comedy, "Le Jouet", or in English, "The Toy", in Santa Monica. The club members enjoyed viewing this French film with English subtitles. French Club worked hard to earn money for two scholarships. These scholarships were awarded to two top senior French students in their third or fourth year. Some of the fund raisers were a See's sucker sale, a bake sale, and a candy booth at the first football game. French Club members could be seen wearing their t-shirts that said "Embrassez-moi! Je parle francais." or "Kiss me! I speak French" at school.

Spanish Club Keeps Moving

Meetings, social events, and fund raisers made up the schedule for Spanish Club. During their meetings the club members set their goals for the year. One of these goals was to earn enough money to award two scholarships to outstanding seniors in Spanish III or IV. These scholarships were presented at Senior Awards Night. Spanish Club also planned a variety of culturally enriching trips so that members could broaden their knowledge of Spanish-speaking countries. Some of these trips included a Mexican Fiesta at Disneyland, an Ice Cream Social and Swim Party, a Christmas party, a Progressive Dinner, and an Annual Awards Banquet. Spanish Club sponsored the annual clothing drive for El Segundo's sister city Guyamas.

Organized chaos

Drama Club Has Slow Beginning

Drama Club had hopes of getting organized and being an active club that would help with school plays, create some school interests in the plays, and to help fund the plays. These hopes, however, were very slow in becoming realities. At the first election, Karen Preston was voted into Presidency, but after some confusion and a second election, Katy Hapke was elected President. About a dozen students would meet every Thursday at lunch in Mr. Wally Duffy's room, to eat lunch, socialize, and wonder what to do as a group. Drama Club members helped with the ticket sales, programs, and ushering of the production of Dracula. Although not a large or active club, Drama Club was a challenge to the attempt to Broaden Horizons.

A Very Bloody Play

Drama Takes A Big Bite

"Dracula!" was the astounding play presented by Drama Club. Cast members worked hard at memorizing their lines in time for opening night. Cast members had a month and three weeks to get ready for the play, but with only two weeks until opening night, Diane Aikins and Rick Gobert dropped out. The parts were quickly filled with the aid of director Wally Duffy. Mr. Duffy, the head hauncho, made sure the play was publicized, tickets were sold, stage sets were painted, programs were printed, and the play went on as scheduled.

Effort pays off

Never A Dull Moment

As a result of group effort, Pep Club had a very successful year. At games, there was never a dull moment. With pep club on hand to promote spirit, rallies were held, banners hung, and parties were given for the team members at the end of each season.

At all sporting events, Varsity Cheer, Song, Flagtwirlers, and Mascotts led spectators in rousing cheers.

Thanks to Pep Club, students will be able to look back on a year that will be remembered as one of the highlights that broadened their horizons at ESHS.

With the hot September sun beating down on them, Drill Team marches around the track practicing 8-counts "just one more time".

High-Stepping girls

The Half-Time Stars Perform

Riddle! What had 86 legs, yelled a lot, and wore blue and gold outfits on days of games? Answer? Drill Team, of course. Forty-three talented, bubbling girls spent long, hard hours, even weekends and nights, practicing for half-time performances and parades to add spirit to the school. They sat in a group, helping Pep Club cheer at rallies, and football and basketball games. Even at the away games they were rooting for the team. They choreographed their own routines which added color and spirit to half-time. For Homecoming, Drill Team decorated the Main Hall for the Hall of Fame and greeted everyone with songs and cheers early in the morning. In keeping with the theme of Homecoming, "Disney on Parade", each girl wore Mickey Mouse ears as she marched in the parade down Main Street, and danced to the tune of "Bare Necessities". Drill Team consisted of eleven ranks with rank leaders, a head rank leader, and two Colonels. Good old Mr. Henderson acted as Drill Team Sponsor again, and did much to help make Drill Team a spirited group of girls.

Teresa Hill concentrates hard on marching in perfect unison with her rank. Not bad Rank 4!!

Sweet "Mr. Dougey" as he was affectionately called, sponsored Drill Team again.

The Varsity Band utilizes daily class time to perfect their "Who Cares" routine to the Gong Show theme song for the last show.

Under the direction of Mr. Roc McNaughton, the Varsity Band learns the music for their first half-time performance.

Band marches on in Spite

With McNaughton Spirit Is High

Varsity Band began their marching season with a fresh new attitude. This feeling was prompted by the arrival of a new director, Roc McNaughton. Roc, son of Patton McNaughton, former director of the Junior High School, came to ESHS directly after graduation from UCLA, where he was in the band.

Varsity Band started training early this season with summer practices for drummers, freshmen, and finally the full band. The Band performed at four home football games, playing tunes such as "YOES", "Bare Necessities", "King Tut", and "Double Vision". They attended all away football games and all home basketball games as a pep band. Varsity took their usual place at the head of the Homecoming and Christmas Parades. Band also attended the UCLA High School Band Day and had the privilege of working with the UCLA Bruin Marching Band.

Varsity Band did some fund raising to earn money for cleaning of the uniforms and various other expenses. Some fund raisers were a bake sale, in October, Halloween Insurance, and a sucker sale. Band put all their talents and resources together to work towards a successful year of broader horizons.

Drill Team performs willingly as the Band plays Mr. McNaughton's version of "Last Dance" at the season's first home game.

Joining for spirit

Three Groups One Effort

Band, Drill Team, and Pep Club sparked up the sporting world of ESHS. Football and basketball half-times, water polo cheers, and track encouragement were just a few of the spirited actions of these groups. Band provided the music and drum rolls to spear the team into action. Pep Club led the cheers for touchdowns and baskets and goals. Drill Team offered vocal and visual support for everyone. Students of all classes or sizes joined forces to make these groups sparkle plenty for ESHS spirit.

Is CSF for you?

CSF Has: Intelligence

Jocks or brains? The students of ESHS seem to divide themselves among these two major groups. Although some of the members of the California Scholastic Federation, better known as CSF, were sports orientated, the club was primarily organized for those students who had achieved a minimum of 7 points of A's and B's in solid subjects. These intelligent young students met monthly to discuss field trips, plan activities, or just to meet and socialize with students on the same intellectual level. One of their activities was to compete in tournaments with CSF students in other schools, thus promoting friendship and common interests among the academically talented. They also offered tutoring for students at ESHS.

Karen Preston and David Real can only care for their stomachs, while Diane Aikins is hoping to plan an exciting field trip for the Aviation Club.

Up! Up! and away

Aviation Is Flying High

Living by the L.A. Airport, many students at ESHS find an interest in airplanes. The Aviation Club was organized for those students interested in becoming pilots. They met every Thursday with Mr. Joe Hern, sponsor. In September the club went on a field trip to the L.A. Airport's 50th year celebration, where they saw planes of the past and of the future. Aviation Club members dreamed and prepared for flying high in the sky!!

People are backbone

It's What Makes Us, Us

ESHS was approximately 1025 persons congregated within the walls of a brick building. These persons were divided fairly evenly between male and female, and among freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors. These students were watched, counseled and taught by 54 faculty and administrators who shared the concerns and joys of students. Seniors, as usual, were the most active and noticable group as they acted as ASB leaders in Student Government, clubs and sports. Juniors were also there, training to take over when the seniors moved on. The sophomores were a step ahead of the freshmen who were still a little new, and unsure about the school. But people were the backbone of ESHS and the individual was still an important part of broadening horizons.

Joe Caravello and Mary Bell slow dance at the 1978 Coronation to "We've Got Tonight", also the theme of the Homecoming dance.

Blake Fine looks a bit surprised by the annual staff photographer, but shrugs it off and is on his way to class so as not to be late.

Diane Norris, a senior at ESHS, and active member of her class and many organizations, is a very familiar face around campus.

Life is Intense

Diploma Is Everything

Seniors felt life was more intense their final year. Grades were suddenly very important for scholarships and college acceptances. That diploma became more desirous each day. Yet, seniors felt life was somewhat better than before because they were involved in more activites and they had more independence. Seniors were making it through school and earning money at jobs and enjoying it all. They hoped for a future of beautiful happinings.

Senior class of 1979 is represented in ESHS' Student Government by four senior class members. Chris Motta, Lisa McAllistar, Wendy Owens, and Diane Norris.

Fun & Zep Prevail

Seniors had many good times during the year. Games, dances, club meetings, sports banquets, and other school activities added to the fun. They also enjoyed some of the academic elements of ESHS . . . P.E., SCROC, and even some English classes: Am. Humor and Women's Lit. To relax, they listened to their favorite comedians and musical groups, Steve Martin and Led Zeppelin. The class of '79 laughed, cried, and sighed, but they expanded their horizons.

Dreams stir up

Graduation Arrives

Graduation was a thrilling moment. Dreams stirred the hearts and minds of the class of 1979, dreams of college, dreams of jobs, dreams of summer vacations. But dreams were mixed with realities. . Leaving friends and classmates, teachers, and clubs dampned the otherwise happy moment. Seniors were the promise of the underclassmen's tomorrow. Seniors were the people who ran the school and offered leadership. Seniors were the best.

Prepared for

Horizons Unexplored

Seniors were at the end of one big phase of life, high school. It was work and fun. English papers, Chemistry experiments, finals and Social Studies all made life rather miserable at times. But club meetings, Homecomings, Proms and Coronations are the memories they will remember and smile about in the years to come. Seniors passed one big milestone of life and began on new ones. Seniors were prepared for horizons unexplored.

Today's Test

Tomorrow's Dreams

What was a senior? A senior was a person who was at the end of his high school career, but at the beginning of his dreams, his ambitions, and his future. Seniors sighed and laughed as they struggled and grappled with homework, tests, and teachers. Happy times mingled liberally with the tears and sorrow. Talking-with friends, sharing each others joys, triumphs, and troubles, these were the moments that seniors cherished most of all.

Two of El Segundo's more serious and intelligent seniors, Ty Laffoon and Dave Combs, show what happens when you study too hard and make good grades. It gets to you.

Senior finality

The End Of Pressures

There was a lot of finality in the life of seniors. Their final Coronation, football game, and Prom. It was sad to think of these last times. Some seniors didn't even get to attend these functions, which made them even sadder. Yet, mixed amongst these bitter-sweet events were also some happy memories. Some seniors saw the end of required classes and strict rules, the end of finals and extreme pressures. All saw the most final of all events, graduation!

Senior thoughts

From A Diary

Dear Diary,
Today was an exhausting day. Finals are coming up and I'm not doing so well. I just have to get good grades or I won't be accepted at college. That Senior English Review will be the hardest to pass. Sometimes graduation seems so far away. I can't wait. Second semester should pass quicker. I'll be glad to graduate, but I think I'll really miss high school. It's so secure here. Oh, well, good-night.

Seniors Debbie Jensen and Denny Hollingshead are not happy wallflowers. They are merely taking a rest from all the dancing at the 1978 Coronation.

Excitement rises

Graduation Arrives

The excitement of the Senior year rose higher every day. Seniors had senior pictures taken which started all the excitement. College applications had to be filled out. Was high school really almost over? More applications to fill out for Scholarships! Then it was Prom time and Sweethearts and their escorts picked. Soon after that, finals and graduation practice arrived. Then the long awaited, joyful but still fearful day of graduation was there.

The little things

That's What They Like

Crowded halls, decorated lockers, a bell ringing, a teacher lecturing, a part in the plays, the lead in the musical, a victorious game, the class they were always late to, and the teacher who always yelled at them for being tardy, the guy or girl you had a crush on, the Prom that he asked you to go to. These are the times seniors will remember long after they've left ESHS. Whatever course seniors take, life will never hold the memories that they have of ESHS.

Seniors have many serious moments. Brenda White has one just thinking about all the work in Chemistry and knowing it'll be her last high school science class.

Aura accompanies

Seniors Superior

A certain aura accompanied seniors wherever they went during the year. Seniors felt superior to other students. They were at the top of the totem pole. This feeling was popularly known as senioritis. Seniors had many special privileges including first pick of classes, free class periods and the senior snack bar line. These special senior freedoms made life and the waiting until that graduation day in June a little easier to bear.

Decisions made

College Or Career

Seniors had many decisions to make about their futures. To work or to go to college, and, if college, which college? Forms to fill out for college applications and scholarships boggled the minds. Also on their minds was what to do for a job? What kind of jobs were available? What should they take second semester? What should they take in college? These and many other decisions expanded the view seniors had on life.

Gigi Sorensen makes her point very clear at a Girls' League meeting. Debbie Jensen is listening with approval, but Denise Layne is not too sure she agrees.

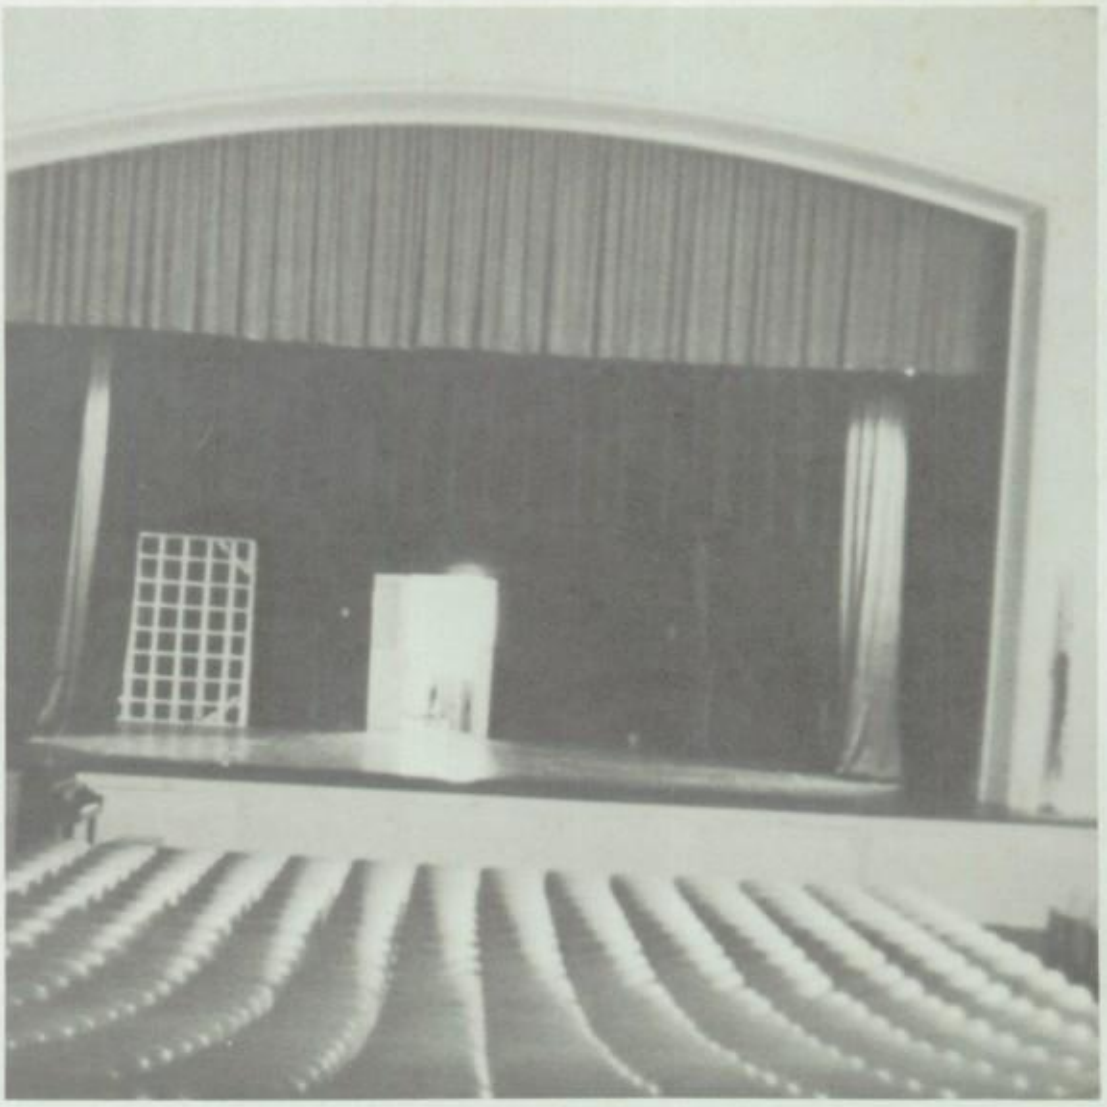
Save The Best For Last

Fuzzy first day

Last For 79 Seniors

On September 11, 1978, at 8:10 A.M., approximately 250 seniors, sleepy-eyed and fuzzy minded, trudged wearily to first period. Many were unaware at the time that this was the last time they would have a first day of school at ESHS. They were well on their way to that ultimate goal of graduation, to that piece of paper clutched so tightly in June, the diploma. "What do you have first period?" someone asked. "Senior English", came the reply. "Ugh!" Others were taking geometry with Mr. T. or French or Political Behavior. Oh, yes it was a long time from September to June but those days grew shorter and went by faster when they reached December. All too soon it was June, and seniors were gone, never to return to ESHS as a first day student again. Au Revoir! And Good Luck!



Memories are made of school assemblies and the Senior section in the auditorium. Many a Senior heckler sat in the front row during these assemblies. Remember them??

No Longer Belong

Four Years End Soon

Four years was a long time to spend at ESHS. We, as students, had to meet the graduation requirements, but over 50 teachers and 48 different classes made it possible. Time seemed to pass by quickly once we were Seniors. Perhaps the fact that we were busy with activities and outside school jobs helped the time to go by quicker than when we were freshmen. Anyway, the four years were over. The time had come when we must close our textbooks and say good-bye to old friends and move onward to new horizons. We were no longer members of ESHS.

Bess Grossman, Editor of the 1979 Golden Eagle, hurries to make her annual deadline. Like many seniors, she worked hard to help ESHS.

Seniors Linda Moessl and Teri Loverde smile in Advanced Spanish. After four years with one teacher, they must enjoy Senor Real.

Ann Wiley and Stephanie Salazar enjoy themselves during a break from their classes.

Kary Clements weighs the knowledge he has learned during his four years at ESHS. He knows he must go forth to serve and gain even more.

Diane Norris shows the true effects that Biology has on a dedicated student. Diane has gone absolutely ape with senioritis.

'79 Well-rounded

Seniors Are Big Variety

The class of '79 had a variety of interests. Many seniors were active in clubs. They spent their lunches attending meetings. Other seniors enjoyed sports: waterpolo, football, volleyball. These seniors spent their afternoons training for and competing in these sports. Some members of the class of '79 prepared for their futures by taking business classes, Auto, or SCROC. Three choirs, two bands, and performing arts kept many seniors busy singing, dancing, and playing their hearts out. There were even some seniors who took solids. The class of '79 was well-rounded.

Sharon Thomas and Janet Gherardi get things ready for the Freshmen Orientation Tea.

Stephanie Salazer reflects upon the wonderful moments in her high school years. Now that it's over, it wasn't really all that bad.

Extra free time

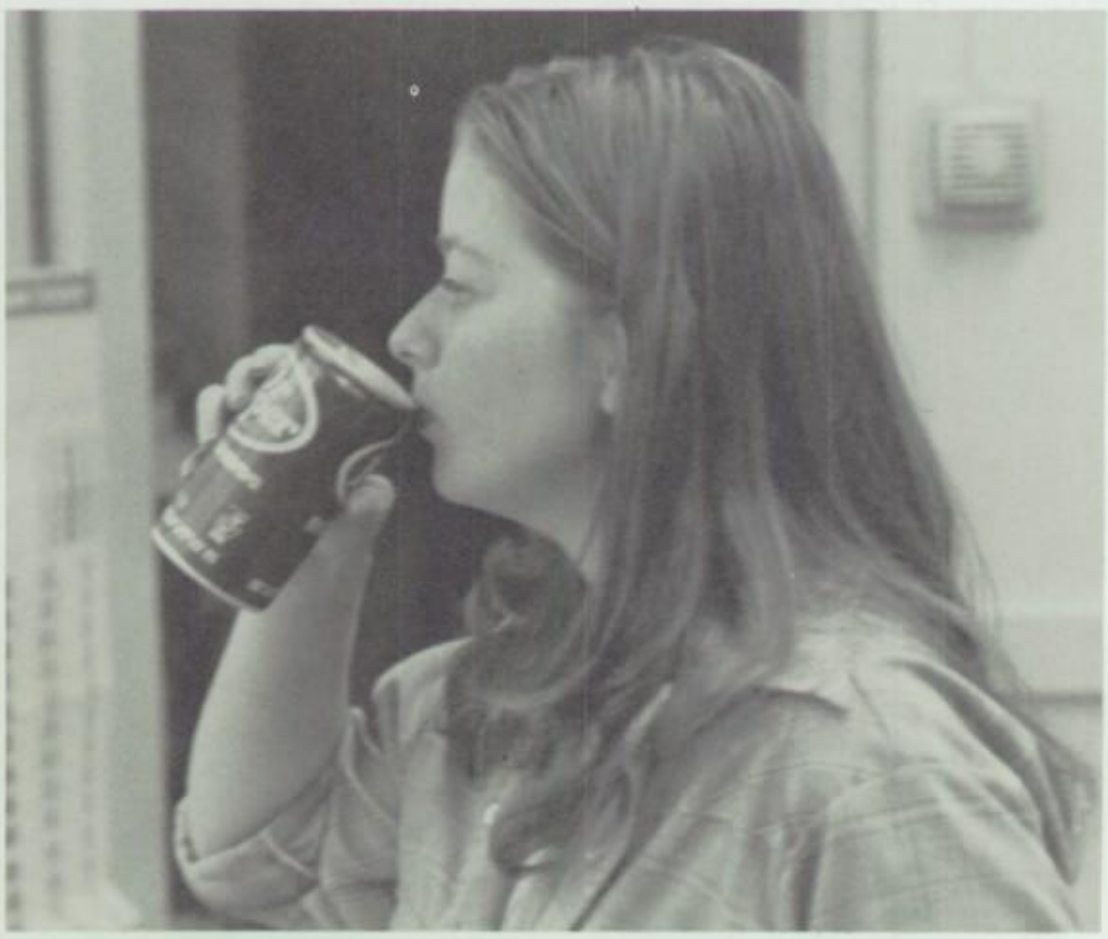
'79 Seniors Kicked Back

The seniors of 1979 enjoyed a lot of free time. They had worked hard for eleven years. They deserved a break! Many seniors kept working hard, but the majority took electives and aide classes, or even free periods. They had time for extra-curricular activities. They spent this extra free time visiting with friends, doing work for other classes or simply dreaming. They thought about the good and bad times of their four high school years. They dreamed about their future. College? Work? Marriage? The seniors worked hard to make it to the top. They were ready for a rest.

Kathy Panayiotou enjoys a typical Epsilon Sigma lunch. The girls have come to be known around school as the "Thursday Taco Club".

Hadeel Talli takes advantage of a year in the United States to learn all the strange customs of ESHS seniors.

Kevin Dobruck smiles during a spare moment, not unusual for a senior. Free time is one of the senior privileges.



Bess Grossman really enjoys being a "Pepper". But more important than being a "Pepper" Bess thouroughly enjoys being a 1979 senior at El Segundo High School.

Flag Twirler Sherri Fitzgerald decides to grab some blue and gold pom-poms and join the Drill Team's latest routine.

Senior Princess Stephanie Salazar and Prince Adam Guy get ready to take their places on their last Homecoming night as students.

What is Your Major Goal in Life?

To sail around the world.

To see cherries grown without their pits.

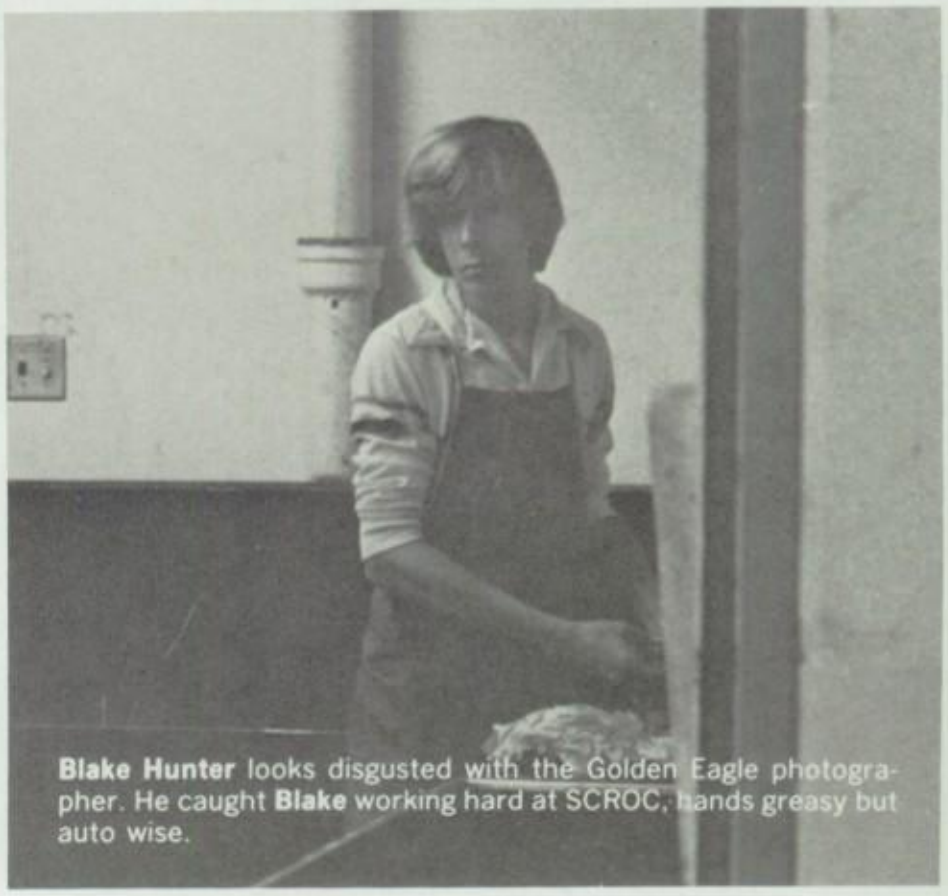
To make it on my own.

Being a professional photographer.

To become a better flute player before my next big concert at the Forum.

To dance and show the whole world "I'm Wiz'n !"

Being a woman-first.



Blake Hunter looks disgusted with the Golden Eagle photographer. He caught Blake working hard at SCROC, hands greasy but auto wise.

Cora Cordova and Sue Wurzell pose for their picture with the infamous Shaun Cassidy. Their first break in the picture biz.

"Hmph," says Diane Alkins," this Aviation Club meeting isn't getting off the ground very quickly . . . There's no pun intended, of course!

Senior Robin Waterfield listens to advice given by Mr. Porter in the Counseling office. Many seniors seek advice on college plans.

What has been the most exciting moment in your life?

Winning invitational Cross Country.

Getting my Driver's License.

When I accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Savior . . . Also when I went to the Heart Concert.

Falling in love over and over again.

Getting carried out of my house at five in the morning for Epsilon Sigma initiation.

Being in the Homecoming Royal Court.

Jill Clark, Managing Editor of the Bay Eagle, spends some time in the Media Center running off dittos. It's all part of the job!

What One Word Describes Your Life At ESHS?

Struggle
Unusual
Busy
Unbearable
Interesting
Fantabulous
Unforgettable

Davina David uses one of the various techniques that she has learned in her SCROC class.

Ty Laffoon, a very mature senior at ESHS, shows off his interesting profile. "Personally, I feel that my right side is far more characteristic", states Ty.

Scott Whitcomb takes advantage of a quiet moment to point out an important fact to [illegible].

Craig Nadel and Paul Stanton focus all their attention of the information that the speaker brought concerning admission to UCLA.

Kelly Stuart and Mark Clark are deep in discussion about the government in Political Behavior.

Lisa McAllister, Janet Gerardi and Cora Cordova wait for the announcement of the 1978 Prom Sweetheart.

What did you like or dislike about ESHS' faculty?

The favoritism and unfairness some showed.

We need a new and younger faculty with better and new ideas.

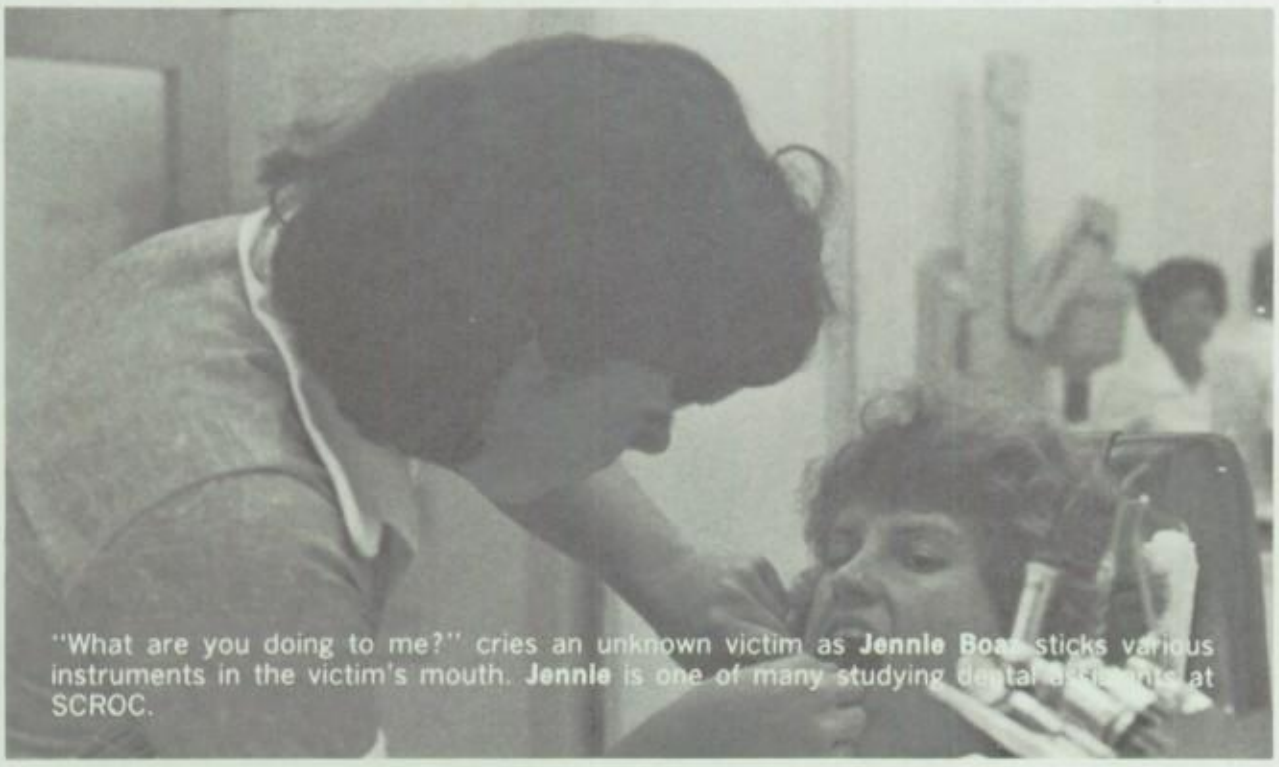
They need to relate to their students more.

Nice for the most part!

Some seem rather bigoted.

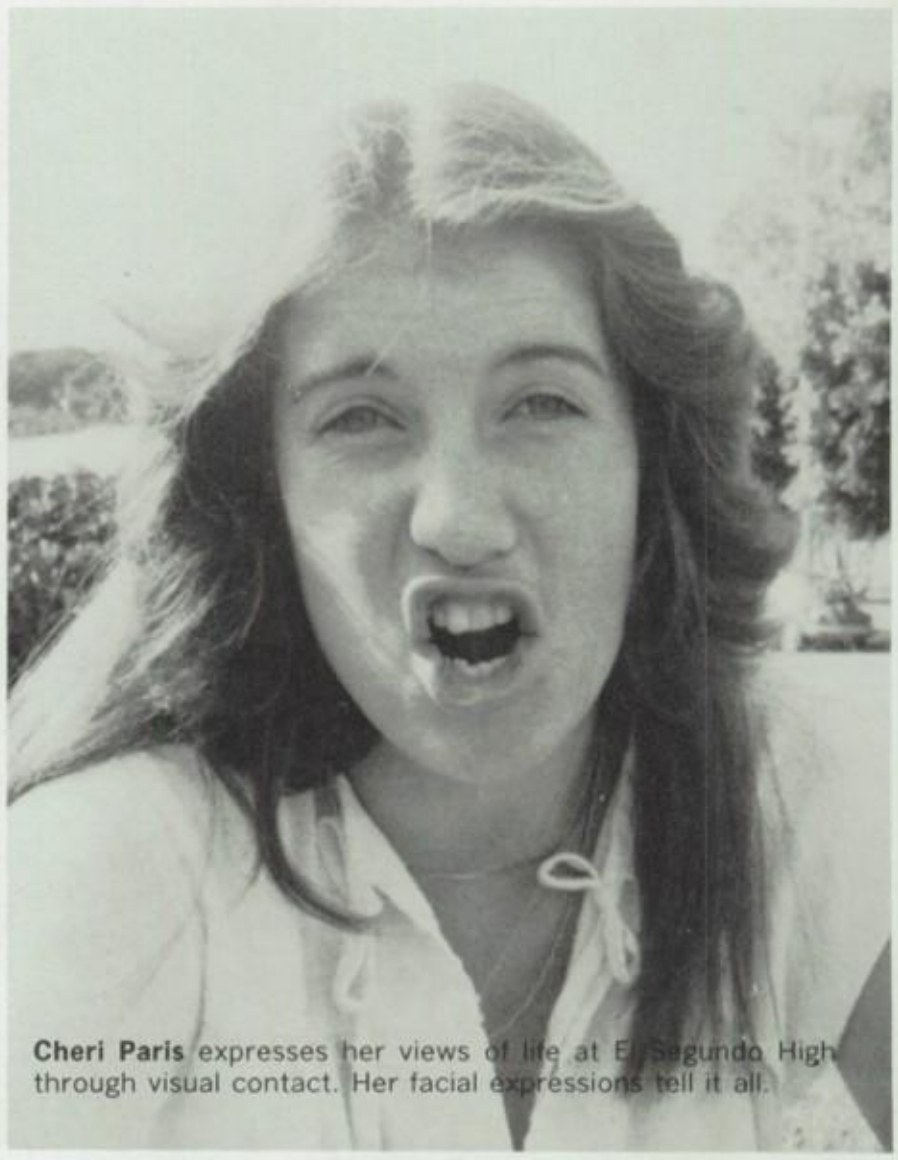
Some are more than teachers, they're friends.

Most of the teachers didn't want to get involved in school activities.



"What are you doing to me?" cries an unknown victim as Jennie Boaz sticks various instruments in the victim's mouth. Jennie is one of many studying dental assistants at SCROC.

Angela Garza is caught at an awkward moment. "They promised me that there was no film in the camera. How should I know?"



Cheri Paris expresses her views of life at El Segundo High through visual contact. Her facial expressions tell it all.

How do you feel the spirit has changed for the El Segundo Eagles?

Spirit has declined totally.

Now it seems things are dying out.

People used to care and have pride in our school, now they just don't care.

Enthusiasm is low.

Not as spirited as it was in 75-76 year; times and people have changed.

It gets worse every year.

People expect too much out of everything; they aren't satisfied with what they've got.

Debra Jensen and Gigi Sorensen practice their routine. They really want to do their best.

At a noon ralley Phil Andrews pledges his allegiance to ESHS' almighty ASB President, Paul Bushrow, much to Paul's dismay.

If you could retain but one memory of your high school years, which one would it be?

Being kicked out of typing class for writing shut-up on the chalk board.

Homecoming week 1978.

The joy of playing volleyball on the ES team.

The night we saw a traffic accident after a game and Diane Aikins was directing traffic in her Drill Team Uniform.

The 1978 Coronation.

My best friend.

Being sent to the office for making trouble in Spanish.

Paul Caravello, a graduate from ESHS, and Margie Francis take a break from the '78 Coronation, held at the Westport Beach Club, to have a coke.

Sandy King and Diba Goodwin, just two of the many senior members of Drill Team, sing the beloved Alma Mater.

The top achiever

Class Of 79 Excellence

Acedemic excellence was the major goal of the top ten seniors of the class of '79. These ten students accomplished their goal through productive use of their free time. They studied hard throughout their high school years to receive grade point averages which ranged from 3.66 to 4.0. Yet, these ten seniors were also very active in the various clubs and activities offered during their high school careers. Their high school years were both acedemically and socially full and rewarding.

Julie Hurlburt and Sharon Thomas discuss minutes at a Monday Girl's League Meeting.

Julie Hurlburt-4.0

Julie has applied for entrance to UCLA. She is not quite sure of her future direction, but is thinking of majoring in mathematics or computers.

Linda Moessl-4.0

Linda is interested in pursuing a medical career. She hopes to attend UCLA and become either a doctor or a hospital administrator.

Gigi Sorenson-4.0

In September Gigi will attend BYU in Utah, where she hopes to major in Business or French. She wants to become a French teacher or a secretary.

Jennie Boaz-3.85

After graduation, Jennie plans to become a full-time secretary at Flying Tiger Airline. Later in life she may become a dental assistant.

Sharon Thomas-3.82

Sharon has been accepted to California Lutheran College. She plans on a four year Business Administration major and a Spanish or Music minor.

Jennie Boaz spends some valuable time at SCROC every morning training to be a dental assistant.

Cathi Cummings and Jim Schmidt enjoy a quiet moment from the noise and the hub-bub of the 1978 coronation "We've got Tonight".

Scott Whitcomb takes a bow for another one of his brilliant ideas at a regular Key Club Meeting.

Gigi Sorensen performs her duties as the club secretary at a weekly Epsilon Sigma meeting.

Nora McElvain-3.76

Nora plans to attend L.A. County School of Nursing after one semester at El Camino. She plans to become an R.N. in pediatrics or obstetrics.

Cathi Cummings-3.75

Cathi is touring with the Continental Orchestra this summer as a vocalist. Next year she will become a vocalist in their recording studio.

Matt Goeglein-3.70

Matt is spending the summer in Europe. He plans to attend UCLA in the fall. He is thinking of majoring in business or becoming a doctor.

Donna Benedix-3.68

Donna plans to attend Cal State at Dominguez Hills and major in Accounting/Business Management. Then she plans to open her own business.

Scott Whitcomb-3.66

Scott wants to continue his music by further piano study. He plans to attend Stanford and obtain a four year major in the Natural Sciences.

Homecoming queen Julie Hurlburt takes her place on the throne at the football game. Her smile shows how truly happy she is.

Coping with life

Juniors Do It

"Make the best of it!" That's one philosophy of a member of the class of 1980. No matter what they did, Juniors did make the best of it. They listened to their favorite musical groups "Chicago", "Kiss", "Boston", and "Led Zeppelin". Their favorite times were being with friends at dances, games, and parties. Many Juniors worked in local or nearby businesses. Juniors broadened their horizons, experiencing all of life, in and out of the classroom.

Junior class officers: JoAnn Linder, Senator; Dave Aikens, Senator; Sabrina Hulsey, Lt. Governor; Theresa Suttner, Governor; Elise Ung, Secretary.

David Aikens | Joelene Aimino | Scott Allen | Sue Al-Marayati | Pat Andrews | Laura Armstrong

Sebouh Aslanian | Dave Barnwell | Leah Baron | Rick Barr | Jeff Beck | Laura Belluscio

Cindy Farquhar, Elayne Thomas, Caroline Pederson, and Corinna Snow enjoy talking about boys in their U.S. History class.

Juniors' wishes

One To Endure

Juniors wished for longer lunch hours. Thirty minutes just wasn't long enough. Boys wished for more teams in sports; girls wanted more sports for girls. When asked what they would remember most about this school year, Juniors said friends, Coronation, sporting events, and the construction of the baseball field and new buildings." They also remembered sneaking off campus at snack with friends to head for the store for junk food. Juniors realized they had one more year to endure at ESHS, and wished it were here now.

One Life To Live

Good Life

Juniors described their life at ESHS with such terms as "Happy, Successful, and Exciting." Dances, activities, getting good grades, and winning games were some of the reasons for those comments. Juniors were glad to get such classes as Photography, St. Government, and Animation. They also sponsored a great Coronation and Prom. Juniors had but one life to live, and they lived it to the fullest.

Coming on strong

Sophomores At It Again

"Half way there," was the Sophomore way of looking at the school year. Charlotte Lassos presided over the Sophomore class meetings every Wednesday. Although only a handful of the class attended, they tried to improve their image. They had concession booths at sports events. They sponsored dances and held a car wash. When asked where the rest of the class was, Sophomores replied," We're her mits." Keep on truckin', class of '81'.

No longer scared Freshmen, Sophomores became more active in sports. Pat Romano and Tina Dornblaser played on the Varsity volleyball team. Lesle McIntosh, Mary Bell, Teresa Motta, and Tina Dornblaser made the Varsity girls basketball team. Joe Caravello, Wes Nadel and John Hess played Varsity football even though they were only Sophomores. Sophomores also took part in other activities. Stacy Wills was president of the House of Representatives. Others were involved in Girls' League, Key Club and other clubs. Sophomores were pushing toward a more active class and they succeeded. Not all fun and games

Sophomores Move Slowly

What did Sophomores do for fun? Not Much! Not much constructively that is. The boys usually gathered on the steps in the corner of the quad at snack or lunch and threw food and trash, usually at the upper classmen but sometimes at anyone who happened to wander into view. Rumor had it Teresa Motta had great knowledge on food fights in the cafeteria. One of the more daring objectives was to sneak up the stairs to the Bell Tower, but four culprits were caught by Mr. Poidevin, the principal, so that escapade was ended shortly without incident. On the positive side, Sophomores did participate in clubs and organizations, sports, and student government; Lesle McIntosh and Ed DeMaria took flying lessons. Many sophomores did live perfectly normal lives at ESHS.

'81's Past and Future

Sophs Looking Both Ways.

Sophomores waited and waited for something to happen that would make them famous or outstanding at ESHS. But nothing happened. They found themselves in the gap between the maturity and leadership of the upperclassmen and the adolescence and eagerness of the Freshmen. A few Sophomores formed the special class of World Humanities while the rest of them took CWA and a regular English elective class. For some it was the last year in P.E., just when they were beginning to tolerate it. Sophomores searched for new ways to relieve old tensions as the shadows of being a Junior loomed before them.

Sophomore April Westover presides as Justice of the Peace during Homecoming weddings that have become a tradition at ESHS with Pep Club as sponsors.

New growing pains

Sophs Expect Better Times

Sophomores found school life more bearable in '78. Falling in love with an upperclassman boy or girl ended many "sweet sixteen and never been kissed" records, but who was keeping score?? A busier schedule included more freedom and more responsibilities. Elective English found some Sophomores competing with Seniors in a class. Math classes meant more advanced problems, and foreign language suddenly became more difficult. It all provided for a more interesting year and greater expectations.

Sophs on the Rise

Soon To Be Juniors

"Dear Diary,
Tonight was the best time of my life. First, I really knew my Drill Team routine well and Mr. Henderson, our sponsor, said we did a fine job. Guess all those practices on Wednesday nights paid off. Also, we won the game, and after the game, I went to the dance, in the girls' gym. Everyone was there. I danced every dance. Am I ever tired. Also, Mr. X, my favorite boy, asked me to go to the Coronation with him. Imagine that! And he's such a big star on the Frosh-/Soph football team. Well, I must get to bed as I have to get up early tomorrow to help with the Sophomore car wash."

Bigger and better

Freshmen Do Big Things

Freshmen's first year at ESHS was one they will remember. Self-scheduling was hectic. Freshmen Studies, English, Algebra, Science, and P.E. were the main requirements. That left one elective, such as chorus or shop. Then came homework, tests, and the dreaded report cards. English helped to prepare them for the proficiency test in the spring. But in spite of all this, Freshmen liked ESHS better than Junior High. Especially the freedom of open campus.

Frosh opinions

Frosh Let It All Happen

Freshmen were opinionated. When asked what they liked best about school, they replied, "people, some teachers, and some classes such as P.E., geography and math." They hated homework and were really unhappy over not getting the classes they wanted. They enjoyed football games, Coronation Dance, after-game dances, volleyball and ditching rallies. If they could change things at ESHS, they would have longer lunch hours, smoking privileges on campus, more assemblies and more sports. They preferred to listen to "Led Zepplin," "Aero-Smith" and "Fleetwood Mac". The song "Don't Look Back" summed up the situation.

Freshmen See More

Freshmen were beginners at high school. They felt the feeling of being new, different and a beginner, especially during the first part of the year. Sometimes they felt left out, snubbed and ignored by upperclassmen. They challenged the rules and experimented with many different ways to express their individuality, some not too good. Legalizing marijuana and allowing smoking on campus were topics of conversation for some of them. Freshmen were trying to make a place for themselves in the life at ESHS. By the end of the year, the class of '82 had arrived and were ready to challenge the unknown over the horizon.

Help For Students

Administrators were given additional duties, because of the elimination of Athletics Director and Activities Director, a result of Proposition 13 cutbacks. Don Banderas, in addition to attendance and disipline duties, was given the responsibility of Athletics Director. Dr. Grange McKinney, Assistant Principal, took over the Activities. Sometimes in the past students were not sure just what the Administrators did, but after this year they were well aquainted with the administrators and their duties.

Versatality

Teachers Do It All

Students thought of teachers as instructors in the classroom, but such was not the case. Teachers had additional duties such as club sponsors, chaperones, coaches and special classes. Larry Misel taught social studies, sponsored Pep Club and helped with the Junior Class. Richard Peterson taught English and advised Student Government. Doug Henderson was a photography teacher and Drill Team sponsor. Teachers never seem to have enough time to do it all, but they did, we did and ESHS did Broaden our Horizons.

Advertising pays

We Thank You Advertisers

Advertising broadens one's horizons by exposing the individual to the services and merchandise available for consumer use. ESHS even had a class of "Buyers Beware" to help students make the right choices when purchasing merchandise or services. But advertisers of the football programs, Bay Eagle, and Golden Eagle expanded more than horizons. With help of local patrons and businesses, these student publications could afford a few extra issues or pages that made them more enjoyable to everyone. So, to those good and faithful advertisers who appear in the following pages, we thank you-and hope we can be of support to you in the future.

A warm thank you

To Those who Make it Work

Homecoming, dances, games, classes and friends, it's all captured in this book. Your life from September of 1978 to June 1979 are between the covers of the 1979 GOLDEN EAGLE.

It would be a terrible thing if we had only our memories to rely on to recall the year; therefore I would like to take the opportunity to thank those who helped pull it all together.

To Mr. Henderson and his photography class for their help.

A special thank you to Robert's Studio, for without them our book would be but words alone.

The faculty for their time and effort put forth in interviews and pictures.

To a former graduate of El Segundo High, Rick Walker for his time and color photography used throughout the theme section.

Our American Yearbook representative, Mr. Dave Sorenson, deserves a big thank you for helping us meet deadlines and learning new techniques.

Last, but not least, the '79 Golden Eagle staff for the hours of work and dedication, my graditude is more than I can express. And Mrs. Kathryn Peterson for hanging in there with us until the bitter end.

Especially to all of you for making the year what it was!!

All the luck to you,

I hate having to go in my Christmas
next year about it.
can talk about it.
See you at home.
Love you more

Ed,

This year has been pretty crazy. I think I've been busy with work and school. Just next year will be even more so. Juniors & Sophmores are the worst! I hope it's a nice summer! Then it's our last year. Stay that way! Love ya guy!

Always,

TAKE it EASY on the big WAVES and the wild women. HAVE A super, great, FABULOUS, FANTASTIC Summer. I'll see you next year I hope. ALWAYS befriendly. TAKE CARE, Best of it all

Sheri Herzog

P.S. You draw super lobsters!!

Hey Eddie
its been fun this year well have fun at the beach together and I know youll have ~~for~~ next year with all the 7th gradeder have fun ~~dad~~

your ~~fiend~~ friend

TAVO

Edward,
Eddie, whatever,

Hi. How are you?
Original huh? Welp!
Only have 1 more year in this screwed school! Finally. Wasn't sad fun? Thanx for getting my papers & rulers for me. Soo weird! I hope to see ya this summer & next year I know I will though.
See ya soon. Have a good one! Bye Bye!
